FARMER BEATEN TO DEATH ON ROAD

JACOB M'BEE FOUND SLAIN NEAR CHESTER

Skull Fractured, Neck And Nose Broken, Shoulder Hurt.

CLUB IS USED

E. Liverpool Police Aid Hancock County Investigation.

Believed to have been murdered while on his way home, the badly battered body of Jacob McBee, 45, potter, near Locust Hill, was found shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning along the Fairview road, one mile back of Chester, W. Va., by Earl and Walter Smoots, motorists.

Body Carried to Spot. McBee's neck and nose were broken, his skull fractured and his right shoulder dislocated.

Coroner George A. Arner, of Chester, who conferred with Prosecuting Attorney W. W. Ingram, Chester, Sheriff J. S. D. Mercer, New Cumberland, and Chief of Police Hugh J. McDermott, of East Liverpool, advanced the theory that McBee had been beaten to death with a club and his body carried to the spot where it was found.

The murder theory, according to police, was strengthened by the condition of the victim's body. Not a stain of blood was found on the face or head or any part of his clothing. Had the man been struck by an automobile, as was first supposed, evidence of the fact would have been noticeable, in the opinion of the coroner.

Seen Saturday Night.

McBee, who had been cutting timber for Welcome Talbot, was last seen at 8 o'clock Saturday night when he left George Wycoff at a gasoline filling station in First street, Chester. Authorities who made an effort yesterday to check up on his movements for that hour had no success.

Discovery of the body by the Smoots brothers was made when one of the youths heard a noise in a field a short distance from where the body lay. Believing the noise was made by the dog which had been lost for several days, they investigated and stumbled across the body. They immediately drove to their home, notified their father and George Wycoff and returned to the scene. The men lifted the body into the car and drove to McBee's home where it was found.

Today

Changing Presidents.
Cow Milking Table.
Wise Britain, Never Asleep.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

TODAY we change Presidents, and everything is cheerful. The people, grateful to the man going out, have highest hopes of the man coming in.

MR. COOLIDGE has said concerning his administration: "I have minded by own business." Doing that, he has minded the people's business well. He has not lifted the hen off the nest every five minutes, to see how the egg was getting on. Under his administration prosperity hatched out nicely.

WHEN Harding's death brought Mr. Coolidge to the White House, the president said to his friend and classmate Dwight Morrow: "I am not going to try to be a great president." Our greatness is measured by time, after we die.

But the world knows, now, that Mr. Coolidge has been a GOOD president. His mind has been on the people's welfare, from day to day, not on building up an advertising or greatness for himself.

FORTUNATELY, there is no good-bye about today's inauguration. Mr. Coolidge, staying here, living and working by own business, will continue to be a useful American. And Mr. Hoover will show, without loss of time, what a trained engineer can do, with the United States, its people and resources back of him.

THE color scheme of the Hoover-Coolidge inauguration was Red, White and Blue for the Stars and Stripes, and (blue and gold for California).

FOR the first time the Pacific coast sends a man to the White House. That was not thought of when Three men were injured in traffic accidents in the East Liverpool district over the week-end.

Benjamin Hall, 38, electrician, of Green lane, sustained a fractured shoulder when struck by an automobile driven by Claude Nease, Newell tile manufacturer, while he was crossing St. Clair avenue near the Horn Switch at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night. Patrolman Robert Borger took Hall to the office of Dr. A. J. Michaels in the Little building and later he was removed to the City hospital.

Dale Yontz, 17, Fifth street, Newell, sustained lacerations to his face and head when an automobile owned by Samuel Caruahan, Newell druggist, crashed into a pole near the Litten filling station in West Eighth street Sunday noon. Fifteen stitches were required to close the gashes in the lad's face. The automobile was badly damaged.

Howard Lutton, 30, mechanic for the Reo Sales company, was cut on the face and head when the machine owned and driven by Mark Brewster, Lisbon, in which he was a passenger, skidded and overturned on the Wells-East Liverpool road, near Brady's cut, early Sunday morning. The car was destroyed by fire, which followed the accident. Lutton was attended by Dr. W. N. Bailey.

HOOVER SPEECH HIGHLIGHTS

The most malign of all dangers today is disregard and disobedience of law.

Crime is increasing, confidence is rigid and speedy justice is decreasing.

Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom.

There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it.

No greater national service can be given than refusing participation in transactions with illegal liquor.

Disregard for some law destroys respect for all law.

Criminal activities must stop. Progress is born of cooperation in the community, not from government restraints.

I covet for this administration a record of having further contributed to advance the cause of peace.

We have no desire for territorial expansion or domination of other peoples.

We wish to advance the reign of justice and reason toward the extinction of force.

The anomolies of elections have no place in our government. He considered remedies for our faults bring only penalties after them.

I have no fears for the future of our country. It is bright with hope.

WOMAN KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE AT STATE LINE

Mrs. Ivy Little's Body Is Identified by Husband.

NECK IS BROKEN

Edward Murphy, Midland, Driver Reports Accident.

Mrs. Ivy Little, 24, wife of Roy Little, 2104 Island avenue, East End, was killed when struck by an automobile driven by Edward F. Murphy, 19, Midland mill worker on the Midland-East Liverpool road, east of the Ohio state line at 7 o'clock Saturday night.

The woman whose body was identified by her husband at the Miller funeral parlors at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, sustained a broken neck and a fractured left leg.

The Pennsylvania state constabulary is investigating the accident today, and in the meantime Murphy is at liberty on his own recognizance.

Stepped into Path of Car. Murphy, accompanied by Kenneth and Leroy Dunn, brothers, all of 841 Midland avenue, Midland, was enroute to East Liverpool in a coupe at the time of the accident. Midway between the Beaver Creek bridge and the Ohio-Pennsylvania line, Mrs. Little, Murphy and his companions said, stepped from behind a parked automobile directly into the path of the oncoming car.

Murphy took the woman into his automobile and started for the hospital. At Broadway and East Fifth street, his machine with the radiator damaged, stopped and the woman was transferred to another car. She was pronounced dead at the hospital by Dr. C. H. Bailey.

Murphy reported the accident to Patrolman Elwyn Shenke, who was on duty at the postoffice corner. He later went to the city hall where he made another report. Police called Midland authorities who, in turn, communicated with the State police barracks at New Brighton.

Inquest Tomorrow. Little, who conferred with police yesterday afternoon, said that his wife left her home early Saturday night. When she failed to return, he instituted a search.

Coroner Harry C. McCarter, Beaver Falls, who is in Washington to attend the inauguration of Herbert Hoover today, will probably conduct an inquest here tomorrow.

Mrs. Little is survived by three children, seven, five and three years of age.

Funeral services will be conducted probably Wednesday afternoon.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Calvin Coolidge whose self-estimated greatest achievement in the five and a half years he administered the affairs of these United States was "the minding of his own business," leaves the White House for the last time today.

A short ride down historic Pennsylvania avenue, a brief pause at the capitol to affix his signature to the last-minute legislation of the dying congress and to witness the inauguration of his successor in office, a dash to the station through the tightly-packed holiday throngs, a ten-hour train ride to the north, and midnight will find him back at his old home in Northampton, Massachusetts—a private citizen for the first time in 30 years.

He leaves the big white mansion of his own volition, for he "chooses" not to be a candidate to succeed himself at a time when another term may have been his for the asking.

Entered Politics in 1899.

Wearied of the exactions and rigors of public service that have been his from that day in 1899 when he first entered politics as a member of the town council of Northampton, he relinquishes the reins of office retreating only the severance of the many pleasant personal ties that have been his during his eight years in Washington as vice president and as president.

Behind Mr. Coolidge lies no spectacular administration, yet withal a satisfactory one. The man from Massachusetts took office with the promise to carry on and instill economy into the functioning of the great federal machine. He did both, and he did it, as he observed to the newspaper correspondents in his informal little farewell address, by "minding my own business."

The retiring president steps down from office a more popular figure than when he assumed it. At the time Warren G. Harding died, the leaders of the Republican party were scheming to eliminate him from the national ticket in 1924. He departs today with the satisfaction of knowing he is one of the most powerful influences within that party as a result of his own efforts.

Californian Is Sworn In As Coolidge Gives Up Government Reins

Iowa Orphan Boy, Who Located on Pacific Coast After Developing Into Globe-trotting Engineer, Takes Oath as Nation's Leader Amid Unprecedented Inaugural Pomp.

CALVIN COOLIDGE AND W. H. TAFT, FORMER CHIEFTAINS, ARE PRESENT

Bare-headed in Chill March Wind, Right Hand Upraised to Heaven, Left Hand on Biblical Tenets of Quaker Faith, New Executive Qualifies for Highest Office.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

CAPITOL PLAZA, WASHINGTON, March 4.—An Iowa orphan boy, who developed into a globe-trotting engineer whose work for many years made him almost a stranger to his own country, became the thirtieth president of the United States today amid inaugural pomp and pageantry such as the capital has not witnessed in a quarter of a century.

Bare-headed in the chill March wind, right hand upraised to heaven, left hand resting upon the Biblical tenets of his Quaker faith, Herbert Hoover took the oath to the highest office in the land while a distinguished company on the east steps of the capitol sent their cheers and applause rolling wave-like across the crowded plaza.

Two ex-presidents were in that company, something no inauguration has seen before.

There was Calvin Coolidge, thin-faced and taciturn, who but a moment before had laid down the reins his successor was assuming.

There was William Howard Taft, corpulent and jovial, the twenty-sixth president, now chief justice, who twenty years ago this murky March day, at the same time and on the self-same spot, himself took the oath which he today administered the incoming executive.

The governors of more than half the states were there—the black-robed and venerable justices of the supreme court—frock-coated senators, old and new—diplomats, the representatives of the nation in their brilliant court uniforms—the incoming and outgoing cabinet officers—the rank of the army and the navy—and out and beyond all of these were many, many thousands, perhaps a quarter of a million, of the plain people of America by whose suffrage and because of whose confidence the man with the upraised hand was stepping into the first elective office he ever held, which is also the most powerful in the world.

NEW CHIEFTAIN CALLS UPON PEOPLE TO OBEY LAWS THEY HAVE WRITTEN

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

CAPITOL PLAZA, Washington, March 4.—Herbert Hoover inaugurated his presidency today with a challenge and a plea to the American people to obey the laws which they themselves have fastened into the constitution and written into the statutes of the land.

On the selfsame spot where so many of his predecessors have stood and solemnly voiced their hopes and high purposes, the man who is assuming his first elective office became the thirty-first president of the United States, declares in his first utterance that the greatest menace to America today is "disregard and disobedience of law."

It was no stereotyped plea for law observance that Mr. Hoover made at the outset of his administration—it was a direct and personal challenge to the ordinary law-abiding citizen to quit buying bootleg liquor.

Refers to Liquor Traffic.

And he was addressing not only the thousands immediately in front of him but tens of millions who constituted his radio audience.

"There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it," he said.

"No greater national service can be given by men and women of good will—who, I know, are not unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should, by their example, assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor."

"Our whole system of self-government will crumble if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support."

For his own part, the new president pledged determined and unflinching efforts to secure better enforcement of the laws. But in the same breath he admitted that no efforts by the government can be successful without the cooperation of the average man and woman.

"This measure of success that the government shall attain," he said, "will depend upon the moral support which you, as citizens, extend."

As a start toward clearing up the prohibition mess, Mr. Hoover proclaimed his intention of appointing a fact-finding commission "for a searching investigation" of the whole structure and as a further step he proposed the transfer of enforcement from the treasury to the department of justice.

The importance with which the new president regards the prohibition and law-enforcement situation was exemplified by the fact that he devoted nearly a third of his inaugural address to it—and the first third, at that.

For the benefit of those foreign governments that profess to doubt American good faith, he declared that this country seeks no territorial expansion.

Railroad Employees Received $5,230,953 Last Year.

Employees' voluntary relief department of the Pennsylvania Railroad company paid total benefits amounting to $5,230,953 during 1928, according to the annual report of the organization. Of this amount, $1,888,084 was paid out in death benefits, $2,683,333 for sickness and disability and $659,536 in the form of superannuation allowances to increase the pensions of retired employees.

The voluntary relief department was organized February 15, 1886, as a permanent agency for welfare work. Its primary purpose is the maintenance and management of a relief fund from which employees can obtain for themselves and their families, through the payment of small monthly sums, cash benefits in the event of death, sickness or accident as well as superannuation allowances.

Another important feature of the department's program is the maintenance of a staff of more than 160 physicians and surgeons, whose services are available to employees without cost.

The company bears the entire cost of operating the department, thus leaving all dues available for the payment of benefits. Since its organization 43 years ago the department has paid a total of $101,715,917. At the close of 1928 there were 172,607 employees of the Pennsylvania railroad system holding membership in the voluntary relief department.

MANY HERE END COLDS WAY DOCTORS ADVISE

Find Hospital Tested Method
Quick, Pleasant and Inexpensive for Home Use

Head colds, coughs and chest colds can be ended quickly—often in a few hours—by a method doctors now advise which vast numbers of East Liverpool people, like M. B. Ellis, have found to be ideal for home use.

Mr. Ellis, for example, caught cold several days ago while riding in an open car. He paid little attention to it until two mornings later, when his nose was stopped up. Then, when a feeling of tightness across his chest caused fear of pneumonia, he called the clinic for expert advice.

Relief began quickly when doctors gave him Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrate mixture of wild cherry, turpentine and other ingredients which relieved even the most extreme hospital cases. With first pleasant swallow he felt the comforting, healing warmth from his nose passages deep down into his chest. By lunch time his nose and chest had cleared up considerably. That night he could breathe freely and coughed only once or twice, and in a day or so, doctors report, he was completely rid of the cold.

Note: See other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

This hospital medicine penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the breathing passages. Absorbed by the system it quickly reduces phlegm, helps allay that "feverish," irritable feeling and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll feel like a different person tomorrow. At all druggists.

POLLS CLOSE MARCH 11 IN POETRY VOTING

Last Coupon for Review Readers in Today's Edition.

LIST FAVORITE

Frederick J. Haskin
Prepares to Tabulate Returns.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—A flood of mail has begun to reach the office of Frederick J. Haskin, director of the nation-wide poll to discover America's Favorite Poem. The poll started Feb. 25 and already the selections of several thousand newspaper readers have been received. These are being sorted, but no preliminary announcement of the results will be made, as the poll does not close until the last receipt of mail on Monday, March 11. The last coupons for voting in the poll will be published today.

Handling the results of this poll will involve a large staff of readers and tabulators, as Haskin has agreed to find out, from the votes, what is the favorite poem in each city where a newspaper has taken part in the poll, as well as to determine the nation's favorite poem by consolidating all the results. The second, third, and other choices are also to be determined, and it is then planned to publish, in inexpensive booklet form, a collection of America's most popular poems. This booklet will be made available to readers of the newspapers which took part in the poll, at nominal cost. It is planned to have it ready for distribution almost as soon as the result of the poll is announced.

Accompanying the votes in the poetry poll Haskin is receiving a great many requests for copies of popular poems, or information as to where they may be found in books. He declared today that the influx of these requests is already so great as to indicate that the staff of his national newspaper information bureau may be slightly behind schedule in answering them, but will do the best possible in supplying the information desired.

An aroused interest in poetry has been one of the ideas back of undertaking the national poll to discover America's Favorite Poem. Much of the finest thought of the people has been expressed in verse, and the general appreciation of poetry is a vital part of our national culture. People disagree as to what poetry is best, but most people agree that the poetic form of expression is one which expresses the best ideals of the race, both in serious, sentimental and spiritual thought, and along lighter lines.

Today is the last day for voting for your favorite poem. Everyone has some poem which holds for him an especial appeal. All are urged to fill in coupons and cast their votes in the nation-wide poetry poll.

New Chief at Helm

Herbert Clark Hoover is the nation's chieftain tonight. Succeeding Calvin Coolidge, who leaves the White House after serving seven years, the native Iowan and adopted Californian, shortly after noon today, assumed the highest office within the gift of the American people.

Equipped with experience with governmental problems, for he has faithfully served in many important posts, including his administration of the duties of secretary of commerce in the cabinets of Calvin Coolidge and the late President Harding, Mr. Hoover is no stranger to the arduous tasks that confront him.

And, too, President Hoover's knowledge of government is not confined to his own country. He has been entrusted with great tasks abroad, and his private enterprises in the fields of engineering and science have called him to the far corners of the world. And in the interim between election day and inauguration he made a good-will tour of South America.

But the burdens of the office, as the new chieftain noted in his inaugural address, are ever increasing. As he took the helm of the ship of state which has been piloted for 140 years by men, who, upon retirement, showed the effects of the tasks that fall to their lot, President Hoover said, "This occasion is not alone the administration of the most sacred oath which can be assumed by an American citizen. It is a dedication and consecration under God to the highest office in the service of our people. I assume this trust in the humility of knowledge that only through the guidance of Almighty Providence can I hope to discharge its ever increasing burdens."

No administration has ever begun with more striking indications of success than that of Herbert Clark Hoover. And he enters office with the support and confidence of his fellow citizens as his predecessor retires with their best wishes.

Licenses For Drivers

The Nickels bill looking to the licensing of the drivers of motor vehicles has passed the state senate by a vote of 19 to 8, and now goes to the house, where it is expected to encounter stiffer opposition than it received in the upper house in which a bitter fight was made against it.

Under the provisions of the proposal, any one who has operated a motor vehicle for two years, with no serious accidents, and who has not been convicted of any serious offense, can get a license upon application to the deputy registrar of motor vehicles in his county.

The application must state the applicant's name, age, sex, general description, including height, weight and color of hair, eyes and complexion, residence and business address, occupation and the license number and general description of car and experience in operating a motor vehicle.

Conviction of traffic ordinance violations must be stated and if the applicant is under twenty-one, the consent of father, mother or guardian must be indorsed on the application.

If the applicants has ever been convicted of violating a law or ordinance, or involved in an accident "in which property damage or personal injury occurred" or if the applicant is under eighteen, the deputy commissioner must require the applicant "to show cause by a written or oral examination or by demonstration or by examination and demonstration, why a license should be issued to him."

A license, which is to cost fifty cents, of which fifteen cents are to go to the official issuing it, can be revoked by any judge of any court.

Like many other laws, if the bill becomes a law, its worth will depend wholly on whether it is merely "used" or enforced to accomplish the purpose for which it is held out as intended.

Islands For Debts

If Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, former United States minister to Argentina, has his way about it the problem of settling the debts of England and France to the United States will be a little affair of cancelling notes and accepting certain islands which he thinks we should have.

Not only would his plan clear the financial boards, but it would as well, he thinks, remove some future dispute which might arise from our insistence upon the principles of the Monroe Doctrine.

In outlining his proposal before the Boston Branch of the Foreign Policy association, General Sherrill pointed out the ever present threat which England and France hold over our uninterrupted use of the Panama canal by reason of their ownership of commanding islands in the Caribbean. Their transfer to our ownership, he insists, will go a long way toward removing future misunderstandings.

"The plan of using islands to cancel debts would be welcome by taxpayers of the nation affected. And if politicians and militarists reply they do not wish to give up naval bases on these islands close to the Panama canal and the mouth of the Mississippi, the question should be asked, 'Naval bases against whom?'"

"I believe the greatest factor for international peace is the will to peace on the part of the people of the United States and the people of Great Britain. I do not believe in letting the politicians of the next generation have a chance to make trouble."

While there is little hope that the plan will materialize, there is something worth thinking about in the plan. First of all, every move which eliminates an European property interest in the New World is one less chance for conflict. Again, the Panama canal is primarily a national defense. If it is constantly open to quick destruction by airplanes from neighboring islands, Uncle Sam should do well to spend more millions to protect it. Moreover, the United States has little need for gold. Foreign nations had better have it so that they may purchase our products.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 4.—American officials and the executives of financial institutions know that it is well worth their while constantly to keep an eye on the economic situation of Great Britain, our principal competitor in the trade and finance of the world. Early each year the great banks of England hold their annual meetings of shareholders and it has long been the custom for the heads of these financial institutions to deliver addresses reviewing the national affairs from the economic and financial viewpoint. These meetings have been held and American leaders have become aware by studying the addresses that Great Britain has indeed girded her loins for a tremendous struggle.

There are two banks in London which overshadow all others in immensity and influence. They are Barclay's Bank and the Midland Bank. Each has hundreds of branches throughout the world. Some comprehension of the size of these institutions may be guessed from the statement that each has deposits of more than a billion dollars.

The principal annual addresses are made by the chairman, F. C. Goodenough is chairman of Barclay's and the Right Honorable Reginald McKenna of the Midland. McKenna formerly was Chancellor of the Exchequer of Great Britain. Both men have world reputations as bankers and economists.

Mr. Goodenough made special reference to these business conditions and also to the depression in the Lancashire cotton spinning industry where there is a situation not greatly different from that in our own great textile region of New England. He referred to the widespread unemployment. He remarked that there have been so many sore spots that the bright ones have been obscured.

After referring to an improvement especially noticeable in such new industries as the manufacture of artificial silk, he declared that the industries of the nation not only have begun but are making progress in passing through a period of reorganization of a new basis. While Goodenough did not specially refer to the American mass production system which so greatly lowers cost of production and adds to national wealth, he described it in unmistakable terms and declared that practically the whole of British industry is undergoing reorganization designed to bring about a similar situation there which promises British manufacturers ability to compete with American on their own footing. He threw in a note strongly insinuating that individual skill of the British workman is greater than that of the American and that, using the American mass production system, Great Britain can beat us at our own game.

Moreover, Goodenough reported that great industrial combinations are in progress, weak companies being merged with stronger ones with a lowered cost of production resulting. British laws do not frown so sternly on trusts as do American and the chairman was of the opinion that the competitive position would be greatly strengthened by these actions.

Another note of especial interest at this time when congress is planning to revise the tariff in this country is that Goodenough indicated that the resolutions of the World Economic Conference of Geneva, 1927, which recommended a world-wide agreement to lower tariff barriers would be pressed. New outlets, he said, for foreign trade were constantly being made.

As to the home situation in Great Britain, the chairman declared, the new industrial amalgamations would permit greater employment as also would the public works planned, such as road-building, drainage, and other undertakings.

Chairman McKenna, in his address, made a striking comparison between the credit situation obtaining in Great Britain and that in the United States. He was quite fully informed about the tremendous volume of speculation which has been going on in stocks and bonds in the United States. He quoted the figures on the amount of bank funds being lent to American stock exchange traders for speculative purposes. He then turned to the British figures and showed that American speculation now is four times as great as that in Great Britain.

These reports may most profitably be read while remembering the characteristic reticence of the typical Englishman and his proneness to understate rather than overstate. Therefore, the unmistakably cheerful tone adopted in these bank reports are making American industrial and financial leaders think carefully of what the future may hold in the way of competition in world trade from Great Britain.

A novel note is the buttonhole slit at one end which allows the scarf to be worn in a soft collar arrangement. All kinds of scarf ensembles are being created and many scarfs have monograms on one end and they come in all shapes and sizes. NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Diary of a modern Perry: Awake and in a fret over having to pay $9 for eleven row theatre seats plainly marked $5 albeit not for myself. To breakfast of hominy cakes with sorghum molasses and Bernard Sobel outtumbled me for the check.

So about about town and had a photograph taken for Aunt Betty who is the most charming lady I know. Then stopped at a theater rehearsal where a group of Malays sang chanting songs, monotonous but very sad, and home to my drudgery.

In the evening with my wife to walk along the part wall of upper Fifth avenue, stopping to talk to George Worts, the taylor writer, and also Mary Harriman Rumsey, E. H. S. daughter and back to our tavern. To bed reading a hair-raising book, the wind shrieking delightfully.

Experts say the increasing number of apartment houses with dining room service on each floor is the answer to New York's what-to-do servant problem. Smaller cities, due to scarcity of jobs, are not confronted with such difficulties. The New York servant for years knew he could walk from one job to another and become a shade or so upshill. Now it is different.

So many have given up private homes—upper Fifth avenue is an example—domestic servants are a glut on the market. Employment agencies can fill all demands. Country homes are sold by hundreds and a number are buying places abroad where servants are easier to handle.

There are also enough chauffeurs for private families, whereas the demand a few years ago exceeded the supply. Thousands of car owners have abandoned automobiles for the expert rental service New York offers. They can secure any make of car, manned by uniformed drivers, in a few minutes, and thus avoid the burden and upkeep of a privately owned auto.

At the Vanderbilt mansion at 5th avenue and 52nd street the other evening a gaudy canopy stretched across the sidewalk from curbstone to entrance—an indication Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt were "having company." New York's usual curiosity was pronounced, and in a short time police had to be called to keep them in line while four or five cars unloaded dinner guests. Many waited in the chill for the departure.

Before the slight Broadwayization of Fifth avenue set in, uniformed butlers peeping through grilled doors at the proletariat was a high spot of metropolitan life for those of us whose idea of a servant was encompassed in the $2 a week—Thursday afternoons off—hired girl. They were pretty grand in their white wings, buckled knee pants and gold braided monkey coats, and yet somehow offered a tinge of sadness. Every evening after dusk they watched the passing parade with a gloomy dignity. I always wanted to stop, call out to one "Hey, Jack! gotta match?" and skeedaddle off like everything.

One of New York's most famous art editors has a disarming method of rejecting stories of artists selected to illustrate stories for his magazine. If the work does not ring the bell, he peers over his glasses and says slyly: "This does not steal my heart away." It is said in all his years of dealing with temperamental artists he has never offended one.

It has been estimated that tips during New York's lunch time total $50,000 a day, which seems a good one on somebody alright, alright.

And the biggest tips in town are said to be those received by waiters at Reuben's between the hours of 4 and 6 in the morning. Reuben's, which started out as a sandwich and became something or other very what-ho, has now reached the swankiness of allowing lady diners to bring their lap dogs.

The grandest news of the week concerns an inveterate cigarette smoker who has given up cigarettes as a result of his disgust for cigarette endorsing ads.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Drilled into the public mind is a respect for certain diseases, as well as a sense of conviction regarding them. It is almost fixed as the laws of Nature.

"Rheumatism" is a disease of this sort. It is all but impossible to make the average man believe he is mistaken about it. He was taught in his youth that going without a warm coat, getting the feet wet, or sitting in a draught, would cause rheumatism. He hates to be disturbed in his conviction.

Our grandparents thought every baby should cut its teeth on a rind of pork. They looked upon the tomato, or "love apple," as they called it, as a dangerous fruit—eating it, they believed would cause cancer. Sleeping in the moonlight, these ancestors of ours, were sure, would bring on insanity.

But "the world do move." We must revise a lot of our old-time convictions.

As regards rheumatism, for instance, we have gone past the exposure idea of its cause. For several years the "infective theory" has held the boards. That is, according to this idea, rheumatism is due to the effects of the absorption of bodily poisons.

Of course there are other factors. We cannot disregard the lowered powers of resistance which result from underfeeding or something else that lessens the nutrition of the body. Dampness and exposure have their effects, it cannot be denied. Indeed, every broken rule of right living is a factor.

From time to time I write about the evil effect of "lime starvation." In childhood particularly, it is vital to have an unflinching supply of lime. Without it all sorts of troubles threaten.

But there is another side to the lime question. There is such a thing as getting too much lime and, for that matter, too much phosphorus. These two minerals have an intimate relationship to bone development. Bone and joint and tendon are close relatives. What disturbs the welfare of one may cause trouble in the others. An excess of lime and phosphorus may cause deposits in the tendons or between them, as well as in the joints.

I shall say more about this on another occasion. It is an interesting problem.

But I was speaking about the infection theory. According to this teaching, if we have diseased gums, abscessed teeth, infected tonsils, or chronic infection somewhere else in the body, the germs may be carried through the blood stream to one or more of the joints.

What happens then? Inflammation. Following it there are deposits and thickening of the tissue. Then nodules, nodes, lumps and deformities result.

These swellings, or tumors, or lumps, or whatever you choose to call them, are to be felt under the skin. The skin moves freely over them and they appear to be fixed in place. Any of the joints—the fingers, knuckles, elbows, knees, ankles and even the bone under the scalp may be involved.

These are some of the present-day ideas about rheumatism. We cannot hope to find a means of overcoming the ailment unless we seek for its cause. The real factor may be a long way off from the painful part.

Think over what I have said and see if your "rheumatic" pain is not due to an infection, wrong feeding or a run-down state from any cause. There is some underlying condition which must be discovered and removed.

Other Editors Say

New Example of Old Abuse.

This newspaper is in receipt of a long excerpt from the Congressional Record, printed in the government printing office at Washington, sent out under senatorial frank, and purporting to contain an "extension of remarks" of Senator Wesley L. Jones in the senate of the United States.

All that Senator Jones said was this: "Mr. President, I have gathered together some data with reference to prohibition and prohibition enforcement that I ask to be printed in the appendix to the Record."

The leading exhibit in the "data" is an exhaustive report on the Durant prize contest, which is featured on the front cover, and includes two winning essays and another one, and some "snappy" passages from the efforts of unsuccessful contestants. Following this, space is devoted to another prize contest and to comments thereon by more or less well known personages. Then there is an outline of "proved successful plans that may be inaugurated immediately," and the remainder of the eighty-nine pages is given over chiefly to numerous dry essays and remarks by all sorts and conditions of prohibition advocates, official and unofficial.

From the standpoint of the dray worker, the document as a whole probably is a sacrosanct contribution to the literature of the "cause." And we are not undertaking to argue about its practical value. But there are proper and improper ways of doing even good things; and from the standpoint of the long-suffering taxpayer the printing and dissemination of the pamphlet in the manner adopted, contributes an irritating abuse of privilege, which is not any the less offensive because the practice of doing such things unquestionably is common in Washington.

The contents of the "extension" of Senator Jones' remarks have no direct, vital connection with any bill or legislative matter now before congress, or very likely to come before congress in the near future. They are almost purely propagandist in tone and the natural deduction is that they were inserted in the Record, not primarily for the information of members of the national legislature, but chiefly because the action opened the road for easy, convenient, nationwide dissemination at public expense. It would have been much more commendable, and much more admirable, and, we think, considerably more honorable, if those interested in the Durant prize award record and the other matters in the Record extract, had let a contract for the printing to some private concern, and had paid postage in the regular way.—Detroit Free Press.

It should be your desire not to add to the burden of regret or sorrow which is experienced by those who cannot keep up with the hurrying crowd.</

In Lemmer's Millinery Salon, they will tell you, that a hat, to be truly becoming . . . must fit the head perfectly. I believe it. Don't you? Right here, I'd like to mention the Olivette Hats. They are deftly designed of exquisitely fine felt . . . come in every color, and are among the very first to mark the head size in each hat. Each tucked away carefully in its own little box gives you the impression it was created for "you." Olivette Hats possess distinction with quite elegance and are exclusively LEMMER'S in East Liverpool.

Children coughing?

In the stillness of the night, the sound of little bodies racked by coughing strikes terror to the hearts of mothers.

Don't wait until the symptoms get serious. Better still, don't even wait for symptoms of any kind. But after every unusual exposure, or if children come home with wet clothes or wet feet, give them GROVE'S BROMO QUININE in the smaller doses prescribed in the directions with each box.

Children do not fuss about taking the tiny tablets, as they do about bad-tasting laxatives. Yet they gently clear the digestive tract, tone the system, and build up the little body's defenses. So children's colds, and parents' too, are nipped while they merely threaten. Or are thrown off quickly. . . . For your own sake, emphasize GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

PASTOR HITS EVOLUTION IN SUNDAY SERMON

Rev. J. H. Lawther in First Presbyterian Pulpit.

BIBLE QUOTED

Other Discourses in East Liverpool Churches.

Man is the product of creation and not evolution affirmed the Rev. J. H. Lawther, Th. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in a sermon dealing with the fundamental truths of the Bible yesterday. His subject was "God or Evolution?"

He laid down the postulate that there is a personal God who reveals Himself by revelation, not reason. He has therefore come down through nature and history. Inspired of God, the Bible is infallible.

Evolution, he contended, tended to cut out God. However, the evolution which constitutes growth and development in the animal and vegetable kingdom he subscribed to.

Evolution for the most part, he declared, traced man, animals and vegetation back to the primordial protoplasm.

"But where did the primordial germ spring from?" he inquired. "There must be a First Cause. Evolutionists frankly admit they do not know. They simply aver ability to trace back to this initial germ. Some hold it comes from fire and water.

Best Remedy for Obstinate Cough Made at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicines, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It also promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and at the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs and those dreaded coughs that usually follow the "flu".

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

First Baptist.

Though but one of every thousand of millions inhabiting China are Christians, yet the influence of Christianity in that vast country far transcends their numbers, asserted the Rev. P. R. Bakeman, 22 years a missionary there, at the First Baptist church last night. His subject was "The Young People Today in the World's Oldest Nation."

He spoke also in the morning service in the church and in the afternoon at the Baptist mission on Pleasant Heights.

Here on a furlough following more than two decades in various capacities in the country, he is now attached to Hangchow, China, as an evangelist.

Pointing to the fact that China had a civilization that antedated all of the civilized countries of the world today in which gunpowder, printing process, porcelain and china were made first, he spoke of the potentialities of it when as now seems certain Christianity will have evolved into more active dimensions.

"Even six of the ten men in its new cabinet are Christians, he said. "In a contest sometime ago conducted by the China Weekly Review for selection of 40 leading leaders of the country, 12 of these chosen were Christians."

He declared that young men were in the front rank of all activities in China, even generals in armies being young men. "Why, it was the high school students who caused the cabinet of the country to resign when the attempt was made to sell Shanghai during the Versailles conference following the World war," he said. "It has created a new patriotism and made a new solidarity in the vast domain. The old folks lack ambition to attempt reforms and cause chagrin among those younger by their failure to act as a unit for that which they clearly see should be done."

"Even the daughters," he said, "practically carry their mothers about on their backs so helpless in fact appear the older generation in accepting conditions as they are."

Boyce Methodist Episcopal

Beginning a series of evangelistic meetings the Rev. John Wisman, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church, Harvey avenue, made an earnest plea that God be given His place in the lives of his hearers last night.

Announcement was made that the "Win My Chum" series of services held last week in which other Methodist pastors in the city filled the pulpit had resulted in the addition of 27 new members to the church, all being young people.

The theme of the Rev. Mr. Wisman's discourse tonight will be: "The Power of God."

He spoke last evening on the text John 3:16: "For God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten son that whosoever believed in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

Referring to the fact that these words were part of a discourse of Jesus with Nicodemus Rev. Mr. Wisman declared they were spoken to a prominent Jew, who though high in power and favor, was ignorant of the central fact needful that the world might be saved.

"And these words in their essence were spoken for the purpose of saving the world since they proved God's love and referred to the need of harmony with God by His presence in the life of everyone."

"God so loved the world that to make possible this harmony and His presence in the life of mankind that He sent His only Son into the world for that very purpose."

"And because of this the words of the text are the central and outstanding ones of the entire Bible. In it are

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Not more than a year ago I became acquainted with a young man, a junior in high school. We thought a great deal of each other until a month or so ago, when his affection for me grew cold. Later I met him again and made a date with him and he lied to me to get me to go out with another girl. I have tried to forget him, but cannot.

He always comes back to me when other girls are done with him. Will the program that had been outlined by the state bishop until the conference next fall.

Bishops Herbert Welsh, of Pittsburgh, Lester Smith, of Chattanooga, and Edgar Blake, of Indianapolis will alternate in charge of the three conferences yet to be held before the next meeting of the general conference.

"The council went on record," he said, "in believing that it would be better to adopt this present arrangement rather than attempt to bring back a bishop from a foreign assignment who may not be acquainted with the prevailing problems of the area."

Following the meeting of the council he with others in it attended a memorial service for Bishop Henderson which crowded to its capacity Gray's chapel at Ohio Wesleyan university. It was presided over by Dr. Soper, president of the institution.

Salvation Army.

With two notable services the two-week revival in the West Third street citadel of the Salvation Army was concluded when Commandant William Hyde, of Cleveland, spoke on "The Language of the Philippian Jailor to St. Paul and His Reply" last night, and upon "The 91st Psalm" yesterday morning.

Thirteen conversions were noted in the final meeting and two were earlier in the day, making a total of 73 for the fortnight effort.

Commandant Hyde will go to Warren today to begin a series of meetings on Tuesday. He is scheduled almost continuously until May.

During the day the Army further continued its work by the holding of three Sunday schools during the afternoon, that in the East End having 50 in attendance, the one in Beechwood 62 and that at the citadel 293, or a total of 405. Though already leading all corps in the North-East Ohio division in this respect, Major and Mrs. Joseph Hughes, assisted by Captain Pilly Lund, have in mind, reaching the 500 mark before the summer vacation.

Announcement was made of a special meeting of the Army Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the outpost in Mulberry street, where Captain and Mrs. Percy Holden, members of the East Liverpool corps, will be tendered what approximates a farewell meeting preliminary to their going to Marietta. At this service there will be special singing and speaking. The East End contingent of the Army is under the direction of William Trelevin.

I let him go when he comes back or forgive him again?

A BROKEN-HEARTED GIRL!

A BROKEN-HEARTED GIRL! Stop being a doormat. For that's exactly the role you have been playing. And besides, you are too young to be thinking serious thoughts of love. If the boy is such a cad as your letter indicates, you should be glad to be rid of him, instead of pining and moaning over him. I'm sure you have lots of other friends and I'd suggest that you go with them and let him seek his own friends. Have too much pride to let him feel that whenever he feels like coming back he can claim your entire time. Put your mind to your studies and prepare yourself for whatever life may hold for you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl eighteen years of age and I have been going with a fellow thirty-one.

I went with him for quite a while. I thought maybe there was too much difference in our ages, so I quit him. He wants me to take him back and says that he loves me. I like him real well and enjoy myself when I am in his company. What do you think about my going with him? I have asked my mother, and she told me to do what I thought best, but I don't know.

BROWN EYES: I'm quite sure, Brown Eyes, that you are not in love with the man. If you were, you wouldn't have any doubts at all. If you like him, by all means see him. I do not, personally, think there is too great a difference in your ages. But if there is the least doubt in your mind as to your affection for him, do not consent to an engagement.

State Officials Say Work From Paris to Weirton Will be Started Next Month.

CHESTER, W. Va., March 4.—Hancock county commissioners were advised today by Major W. N. Present specifications call for a road 26 feet wide from Weirton to the Pennsylvania state line, but it is now proposed by Major Snyder that the right-of-way and grading provide for a 50-foot road, so that when funds are available for additional paving it can be done without delay.

Letters To The Editor

Defends Indian Schools.

Lapwai, Idaho, Feb. 24, 1929.
The Review,
East Liverpool, Ohio.

Dear Editor: About ten days ago I saw an editorial in the Review commenting on an article printed in the "Good Housekeeping" concerning certain wrongs committed in government Indian schools.

We are surprised that such a high class magazine would send out a representative with seemingly no knowledge whatever of Indians or work among them, and expect to get the truth in what she calls "fleeing observations" and then write so glibly of the information secured, from her own admissions, of malcontents who may be found among any people, white as well as Indians if that is what we are looking for.

After reading your editorial, your "if this be true" encourages me to write this, believing you still have an open mind and will welcome the truth and be fair to all concerned.

We are missionaries have lived for 34 years beside the Ft. Lapwai Indian school which is under the government, and while we are not officially connected with it, for we are under the Board of National Missions, we have been very closely associated with it and its work. Through these 34 years we have had the privilege of visiting the Indian boys and girls on an average of three times a week, at irregular times, and these visits taking us sometimes into shops, dormitories, school rooms, dining room and kitchen, and yet in no case have we ever found any of the deplorable conditions reported in the article referred to.

Discipline there must be with an average of 150 boys and girls, but we can assure you that it has never been "of the fist and boot" kind, neither have I ever seen children torn from their mother's arms, or starved, or Indians made slaves for the Indian gives no servile obedience to any one for they have never been slaves neither do I believe they can be, for the Indian never feels that he is inferior. As for child labor, each child is given a certain amount of work to do according to his age and ability, not only that he may help in the work of the school and be more independent, but in order to teach him how to work and be prepared for a useful future.

Sometimes conditions have not been ideal neither are they always so in our own homes, sometimes they have been overcrowded but this was usually due to lack of appropriations to carry it on as it should be, for the government has had to carry on these schools with the greatest economy or the people would complain of high taxes so that the trouble goes right back to the people and seemingly the government is not entirely to blame. There may have been cases of maladministration, but we feel sure they were not general and as soon as the government could get back of a certain amount of necessary red tape and being apprised of the facts has righted them as speedily as possible. There have been some misfit employees who would be critical and unsympathetic any place and who in time moved on, or out of the Indian service to continue the fault-finding and spreading of false or biased impressions.

Perhaps some of the cases cited occurred 25 or 30 years ago in the Indian schools before methods were well tested and tried, and in this case mistakes would be made, but even then I must believe they were very rare and could not be found today.

The writer of the article seems to be wholly ignorant of what an effort the government has been making to preserve the health of the Indian, for I believe there is and has been a well equipped hospital in every Indian school, and not only that but for twenty years it has had great sanatoriums for tubercular Indian children and where all diseases are treated. Twenty years ago the government Indian school here which had been for just the Nez Perces, was changed to a tubercular sanatorium for Indian boys and girls of any tribe in the U. S. and Alaska, making it a national institution. Sometimes there have been as many as sixty five tribes represented at once, coming from Alaska to Oklahoma, and from California to the Dakotas. It has a capacity of 150 and is always full and a long waiting list and a finer institution I have never seen. They have the constant attendance of nurses and doctors, best of food and within the last few years all the old buildings have been replaced with nice, new brick ones. There is another probably just as good at Phoenix, Arizona, which accommodates hundreds, and another at Toledo, Iowa, while in the last few years the government has been dotting the Indian reservations with smaller well equipped sanatoriums which are doing wonders for the Indian people and the government has a great medical health program mapped out for the future.

Then one of the most unjust things in the article is the belittling of the rank and file of faithful men and women who have served for years in the Indian service, for the good of the Indian and on meager salaries in thirty four years we have lived beside this Indian school and agency there have been six agents and a more splendid class of men, devoted to the Indian and always looking out for his interests I have never known.

As for doctors being called "derelicts" we have had six who at different times through the years have had charge of the medical work here and a finer class of men professionally and in every other way could not be found. We have never known one of them to refuse to go to an Indian in all sorts of weather, night or day, traveling over mountain roads, and up and down canyons to give relief or save a life.

While I can only speak personally for this one place, I do not believe the conditions mentioned prevail now, or ever have prevailed in any school of the northwest. I do not believe any one can accuse me of not being interested in the welfare of the Indian people, and yet I have never through all these years felt the need of interfering with any agent or superintendent or doctor in their work under the government, and in the work of our mission among the Nez Perces we have always had their invaluable support. Their policy has been a safe and sane one in dealing with the Indian people and they have been faithful and true to them.

This is why I have had it "in my heart" to speak in their defense and at least let the Review readers, very many of them my old time friends, know the truth so far as this agency sanatorium and government school is concerned. Since we have been promised two more installments in coming numbers of Good Housekeeping it seems to me when she prescribes the remedy as she has promised in the last one, it will be most interesting, with her seemingly superficial knowledge of the disease she describes.

Sincerely yours,
MAZIE CRAWFORD.

A Quick Way to End Baby's Upset Spells

"Like other young mothers, I worried every time Baby cried," says a Syracuse, N. Y. woman. "Several times when she was upset or constipated, I tried castor oil but she couldn't retain it. Our doctor told me to try Fletcher's Castoria because it is harmless and babies like it. That ended my worries and I've used it since for all my children." Castoria never fails to delight mothers by the quick way it ends those upsets of babies and children, such as colic, constipation, colds, etc. That's the reason for its tremendous sale and popularity. Like all good things, it's imitated, but genuine Castoria—the pure vegetable product—always bears the Fletcher signature.—Adv.

MEMBERS SIGH AS CONGRESS GOES TO DEATH

Constitutional End
Comes at Noon on Capitol Hill.

LEADERS WEARY

Seventieth Meet Passes
Over to "Hoover
Special."

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
WASHINGTON, March 4.—The seventieth congress reached its hour of constitutional death at noon today after having bequeathed a remarkable record of important legislative decisions for the future good or ill of the nation.

Worn weary by long day and night sessions in the last two weeks and their nerves frazzled by bitter legisla-

GUARD SAD AS FIRST LADY GOES

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—One of the White House today is feeling more than passing regret for the going of Mrs. Grace Coolidge. He is Guard Tobias Talbot. As the automobile bearing Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Hoover to the capitol reached the outer entrance, Mrs. Coolidge leaned far from her seat, grasped the white glove of Tobias and gave him a hurried farewell before the call rolled into the street.

five struggles, the 531 senators and representatives breathed sighs of relief at the end.

Having settled a quarrel over the last important deficiency bill on Sunday, congress had a resolution postponing for one year the effective date of the national origins clause of the immigration law as its one remaining major problem.

The house had voted the postponement favored by President-elect Hoover but there appeared little chance of senate action.

Despite the broad scope of its legislative record, however, the seventieth congress passed over to the "Hoover special session," the unsolved problems of farm relief and tariff revision.

Among other questions left to the future were railroad consolidation, reapportionment of the house, oil conservation, anti-injunction and coal legislation, many questions of national defense policy and the $125,000,000 Muscle Shoals project.

LA CROFT MAN IS FINED $300

George Deldrick, La Croft, was fined $300 including costs by Justice of the Peace Robert Boyd, of St. Clair township, upon a charge of possessing intoxicating liquors, this morning.

Deldrick was arrested by Sheriff Barlow and Deputies Lewis, Harroff and Elliott when they raided his home at 11 o'clock Saturday night. Three one-gallon jugs of whiskey and 25 bottles of beer are said to have been confiscated. Deldrick was committed to the county jail when his fine was not paid.

FRANK DILL IS FINED $100

Frank Dill, East End, was fined $100 and costs by Municipal Judge Hanley Sunday morning after he pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing intoxicating liquors. Police, who raided Dill's home, say a small amount of whiskey and 120 bottles of home brew were found. Dill was arrested in a Second street hotel by Captain Conley.

Harry Roberts, whose houseboat was raided Friday, was fined $200 and costs. Roberts was released upon his promise to pay his fine after he testified that members of his family were ill and needed his attention.

Frank Emmerling, 64, lifelong resident of East Liverpool, died Saturday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lave Emmerling, 933 May street.

Besides his daughter, he leaves three brothers, George, Jacob and John, and three sisters, Mrs. Lena Wheeler and Mrs. George Croxall, East Liverpool, and Mrs. Ella Mater, Chester.

Funeral services will be held in the home at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon, in charge of the Rev. Charles Edgar of Steubenville. Burial will be made in Spring Grove cemetery.

SECOND IN COMMAND OF SHIP OF STATE

A new and exclusively posed profile portrait of Vice President Charles Curtis, made at his home in the Mayflower hotel a few days ago.

"I TAKE BACK NOTHING," SHOUTS DAWES IN DEFIANCE AT SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 4.—"I take back nothing." Shouting this defiance at the senate in the same fiery manner with which he came into office, four years ago, Charles G. Dawes this afternoon retired from the office of vice president of the United States.

The old army general renewed his attack on the senate rules, just as he smashed tradition, upset the program and outraged senatorial dignity when he was inaugurated in 1925.

The retiring vice president pounded the air with a clenched fist and shouted in blunt words that the senate must revise the rules.

"At this time of parting," he said, "there should be nothing of acrimony in our acts and there is none in my heart. But I would not be true to myself and my conceptions of my duty if I did not speak again of the collective error of this greatest legislative body in the world, the senate, which under its rules has parted with its power to allot its time according to the importance of the matters under consideration."

VICE PRESIDENT CHARLES CURTIS GIVEN OATH BY HIS PREDECESSOR

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
WASHINGTON, March 4.—Charles Curtis, of Kansas who once was a jockey on frontier racetracks, was sworn into office by his predecessor, Charles G. Dawes, before a distinguished assemblage that crowded every nook in the senate chamber.

The incoming and retiring presidents, congress, the supreme court and a host of guests witnessed the ceremony.

Curtis achieved the second highest gift within the power of the American people after 38 years in public life, twenty of them in the senate and fourteen in the house. His ascension to office held one new note in that it brought for the first time to the vice presidency a man in whose veins runs the blood royal of Indian chieftains.

Once the oath was administered, Dawes banged his gavel for the last time, adjourned the old senate sine die and turned the duties over to Curtis. The new vice president, as his first act, convened the new senate of the seventy-first congress in special session and delivered a modest, conservative inaugural address.

Pays Tribute to Dawes.
In his speech, Curtis paid graceful tribute to the man he succeeded, but he likewise administered to Dawes an indirect dig by declaring the vice president had nothing to do with revising the senate's rules. This assertion came in sharp contrast to that of Dawes for years ago when the latter ridiculed the senate's rules, attacked them as "subversive of fundamental, constructive government" and demanded their revision.

Whereas Dawes was audacious and blunt, Curtis was conservative and tolerant. When Dawes pounded his desk and shouted his defiance of senate tradition Curtis observed all the amenities and customs.

BOATS OPERATE AS RIVER FALLS

Navigation was resumed yesterday on the Ohio river between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati after two days of a high water stage which prevented boats from running. The stage at Dam No. 8 at noon today was 17.3 feet, with the stream falling one tenth foot an hour.

FORD AIRPLANE WINGS WAY EAST

A Ford tri-motored, cabin-type plane, enroute from Columbus to Washington, in charge of Pilot Myron Hightower, winged over East Liverpool at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon as hundreds of shoppers in the downtown gazed skyward.

With his handkerchief, which he used for a balloon, Hightower dropped a letter addressed to Miss Desma Kevan, Lisbon street, bookkeeper at the Ogilvie store. Hightower was to have visited Miss Kevan over the weekend but in his letter stated that he had been unexpectedly ordered to Washington to attend the inaugural ceremonies.

The letter was found by two Midland boys on the road while walking to East Liverpool. They delivered it to the Kevan home. Hightower arrived at Bettis field, McKeesport, at 4:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon and after refueling hopped off for Washington.

J. H. DUCK, 87, WAR VET, DIES

John Harrison Duck, 87, Civil war veteran, died yesterday in the home of his son, Lawrence Duck, Pennsylvania avenue.

He leaves two brothers, Harry Duck, East Palestine, and Charles Duck, Unity, and four daughters, Mrs. Ida Brown, Industry, Pa.; Mrs. Elizabeth Boyle, Beaver Falls, Pa.; Mrs. Ella Rollins, Alliance, and Mrs. Katherine Lyons, this city.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the United Brethren church, Industry, Pa., in charge of the Rev. O. L. Benedict, pastor of the Nazarene church. Burial will be made in Oak Grove cemetery, Beaver county Pa.

KENILWORTH TILE STRIKE DENIED

Herbert Goodwin, superintendent of the Kenilworth Tile company, Newell, today denied there was a strike at the plant because the company announced a 20 per cent reduction in wages.

Goodwin declared that six kilnmen had quit their jobs when the company adopted a new method of "placing" tile. The workers he said demanded the same wages for placing racks of seven feet of tile as they had been paid for placing nine foot racks. Other men have been employed to take the places of those who quit, Goodwin declared.

RAIN FALLS AS HOOVER SPEAKS

WASHINGTON, March 4.—A fine drizzle began to fall at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon and five minutes later a light rain was falling, while the stands and seats along the line of the inaugural parade turned into a huge black canopy of open umbrellas.

Boyhood Neighbors Present.
And there on the white and gold platform, too, mingling with the hollytooth of officialdom, was a group of Herbert Hoover's boyhood neighbors, from out where the corn grows tall.

The proudest of the lot was "Old John" Reeder, 92, holding the hat of the man he remembered only as a barefoot boy in West Branch, Iowa, whose mother taught the faith in a poor Quaker community. Hard by "Old John" was Newt Butler, another Iowa, who once "licked" the round-faced man standing there so solemn and stern-visaged. Newt wasn't beligerent today. He was awed.

In front of the new president as chief justice stretched row upon row of unturnd faces. These were the elite of the inaugural hosts, those who by position or influence rated official seats for the historic occasion.

Behind him on the other side of the big dome of the capitol stretched a solid mile of packed humanity on both sides of Pennsylvania avenue, from the "peace" monument to the White House. They gathered early on their hard-purchased, hard-bottomed circus boards, waiting patiently for the moment when the new president would come riding back down the avenue in solitary state, to be followed later by the pageantry of marching thousands.

Drone of Airplanes Overhead.
Overhead was the steady drone of airplanes.

What his thoughts were as he stood there with upraised hand listening to the chief justice intoning the words of the oath only Mr. Hoover himself knows. But they might very well have been, "here am I, an orphan boy, born in poverty, self-educated and successful by my own efforts, unschooled in politics, and now attaining the leadership of the most powerful country in the world by the greatest vote ever given any man in the world's history. Such is the miracle and the opportunity of my country."

Something like that may have been running through his head. Or, maybe it didn't. Maybe he was thinking of the weather and wondering whether these ominous looking skies were yet going to open up and spoil his day of triumph by drenching the thousands who came to acclaim him. He might even have been thinking of something that Calvin Coolidge said to him as they rode side by side together down the avenue an hour before, although Mr. Coolidge is notoriously a silent man on such occasions. Or of the picture in the presidents' room a few minutes earlier, when he stood and killed time in conversation while the hands of the clock ticked off the death knell of the old administration.

No one but Mr. Hoover knows what his thoughts were as he stood there and gazed into the face of his predecessor, and swore to uphold the constitution and defend it against all enemies.

Whatever they were, he turned away after the simple "I do" in response to the questioning oath, and, facing the multitude before him, launched into the speech that contained his policies and his hopes.

Funeral Services Tomorrow.
The body was removed to the Arner Funeral home in Carolina avenue, Chester, where a postmortem examination was made by Dr. C. R. Campbell. Later the body was viewed by Dr. J. E. Fisher of New Cumberland, county health officer.

Coroner Arner will conduct an inquest tonight at 7 o'clock.

Funeral services for McBee, who leaves his mother, Mrs. Jesse McBee, one brother and four sisters, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in his home. Burial will be made in Locust Hill cemetery.

BUCKEYE STATE REPRESENTED AT INAUGURAL

Taft, Brown, Cooper
And Others at Ceremonies.

DAVEY, BEGG, TOO

Ohio, Mother of Seven
Presidents, is Proud.

COLUMBUS, March 4.—Ohio, the state that sent seven of her native sons to the presidency of these United States, was mightily represented at the inaugural ceremonies of Herbert Hoover at Washington today.

Chief among these was William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States supreme court, former president of the country and native son of the Buckeye state, who administered the oath of office to the "orphan-boy-president."

Next in line was Walter F. Brown, Toledo, postmaster general appointee in the Hoover cabinet.

Gov. Myers Y. Cooper and his party also attended the White House solemnities.

Maurice Maschke, Cleveland, under whose leadership the voters of Ohio piled up a vast majority for the new executive at the last election, occupied a place of honor among the visiting thousands.

Senators Simeon D. Fess and Theodore E. Burton, were among the other sons of the upper house of congress who paid honor to the new president. Two defeated candidates for governorship in Ohio at the last election, both of them congressmen, were in the inaugural parade with the other Ohio congressmen down Pennsylvania avenue. They are Martin L. Davey, Kent, and James T. Begg, Sandusky.

With this representation among the Washington elite, Ohio should, and does, feel proud today.

Mexico owned California and missionaries from Spain were busy converting Indian aborigines, too lazy to catch rabbits and far too lazy to escape an active missionary.

FARMERS will be interested in the "fifty cow-milking table." The information comes from Dr. J. H. McNeil, chief of the New Jersey Bureau of Animal Industry. The milking table is devised by the Walker Gordon Company's New Jersey milk farm.

IT is a beginning of industrial methods applied to milk production. A huge table like a small "round house" with fifty absolutely clean cow stalls on it, is made to revolve, slowly. The cows walk on and off, while the table is in motion, and soon get used to the new idea.

TO each cow, an electrical milking device is attached, as it enters its stall. At the end of one complete table turning, the cow, milked and "stripped," walks off the table at the spot where it walked on, and is immediately fed.

FED your cows, always, after milking. Feeding before milking taints the milk. Cows like the milk mass production idea, the relief of milking, followed by the pleasure of eating, makes a pleasant combination. The Walker Gordon Company, milking fifteen hundred cows in one of its stables, can use several tables.

FARMERS may take their cows to cooperative milking lines, like the production line in an automobile factory. Workmen will stand still, cows slowly passing them, one man cleaning them free of dust by vacuum cleaner made by Mr. Wooley, of the American Radiator Company.

ANOTHER man will wash the cow's udders, another apply the milking machinery, another meet the milked cow, walking off the line to her dinner.

SUCH a plan, taking the cow to the man would put milk farming on a modern industrial basis. The average milk farmer would like to get thirty cents a quart for his milk, as Walker Gordon does, instead of $1.80 for 100 pounds of milk, but that is another problem.

BRITAIN'S great floating dry dock at Singapore now becomes available for service.

It increases enormously the value of British battle fleet, extending the range of thousands of miles, making it possible to utilize its main strength in Pacific waters.

THE new dry dock will take care of His Majesty's Peerless, Rodney and Nelson, most powerful fighting ships afloat. Such ships as this country cannot have under the terms of the Washington treaty that we stupidly signed.

WHILE we were about it we made complete fools of ourselves, nationally and internationally, by voluntarily agreeing never to equip and use as a fighting air base our possessions at Guam.

With a fighting base at Guam and such an air fleet as we ought to have, the country would be absolutely safe in the Pacific, with a gun always pointing at the heart of Asia.

POSSIBLY the country will find a way to undo that stupidity. Meanwhile the British kindly say that in case we had a war with an Asiatic power, "probably" Britain would sympathize with us and allow us to use their Singapore base.

Kind, and neighborly, but Uncle Sam could not rely on anybody except himself. He could be thoroughly self-reliant if sentimental fools did not decide his policies.

Councilman-at-large Harry A. Altman, serving his second term, was born October 10, 1882, while his parents were temporarily living in Kalvaria, Lithuania.

Effaces Himself From Picture.
Mr. Coolidge is effacing himself from the picture today in a deliberate fashion most typical of him. As is the custom, he will ride to the capitol with Herbert Hoover. As usual, he will repair immediately to the president's room and there, surrounded by his cabinet, give hurried consideration to the many bills that are jammed through in the closing minutes of a session of congress. He will take his place at noon in the senate chamber to witness the swearing in of Charles Curtis as vice president, and he will join the long list of notables immediately thereafter in the stands on the plaza while Mr. Hoover takes the oath of office and delivers his inaugural address.

But then, he withdraws quietly from the scene.

"It is Mr. Hoover's story," he said tersely in replying negatively to inquiries as to whether he would join the new president in the parade down the avenue and review the two-hour line of march.

Secret Service Men Make Adeius.
Immediately after Mr. Hoover completes his address, Mr. Coolidge, accompanied only by Mrs. Coolidge, the two secretaries and the two aides who have been with him during his White House incumbency, will go directly to Union station located at right angles to the direction the inaugural parade will take.

At the station, the last vestige of the high office he has held drops from him. Here, the secret service men—directed by law to protect the life of the chief executive and his family—deliver up their charges of the last five and half years, make their adieus and hurry back to the White House and the new "Chief."

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will make the journey to Northampton in a private car attached to the rear of one of the Pennsylvania railroad's regular trains. A proposal that a special train be fitted out was rejected by the retiring president. In fact, the transportation arrangements were all made through their son, John, now an employee of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

One minute short of midnight, this car will be detached at Northampton. The Coolidges will spend the night aboard, however, for the townfolks have planned a big reception early tomorrow morning for their most distinguished son. Two hundred whole dollars, in fact, have been appropriated by the good people of Northampton for this "inauguration of the nation's first private citizen."

And after the reception at the station and the ride through the town, Calvin Coolidge and his wife will retire once more to the little duplex house in Massachusetts street from which they went to the White House here to be "at home" once more after the greatest adventure in the world.

These, he said, constitute "the more tangible determinations of the election, but beyond them was the confidence of the people that he would not neglect the embedded ideals and aspirations of America."

"Ours is a land rich in resources," he said, in conclusion, "stimulating in its glorious duty, filled with millions of happy homes, blessed with comfort and opportunity."

"I have no fears for the future of our country. It is bright with hope. In the presence of my countrymen, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, knowing what the task means and the responsibility which it involves, I beg your tolerance, your aid and your cooperation. I ask the help of Almighty God in this service to my country to which you have called me."

Rev. R. C. Beechley
Urges Preparation for Christian Life.

Stressing the need for preparedness for all of life's eventualities by doing so that demandful for the soul's salvation, the Rev. R. C. Beechley, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, opened a revival campaign last night.

He spoke of the wise and foolish virgins, depicting realistically that the latter lost out because they had not previously made preparation for the signal events they had come to attend.

He pictured in detail the beauty of appointments and acts attending an oriental wedding in which the bride, riding on camel or mule, was escorted to her future home, that of the bridegroom or of his parents, amid the light furnished by torch bearers who performed the function as a gesture of honor.

"These, the wise ones, took every precaution to have plenty of oil and an extra supply of torches so that nothing could in any manner mar the happy occasion," he said.

Story of Foolish Virgins.
"The foolish virgins, on the other hand, did nothing in the way of preparation save to attend with their torches which, lacking oil, soon placed them in darkness."

"Negligence, the putting off of preparation needful to the Christian life, stands out as perhaps the crying fault of those without the kingdom of God today," he said.

"This preparation should be made at an early period so as to lessen the overtasking by them of death."

"After death there is no hope that such can be done. To put off the departure in this direction goes far in causing the door to be closed to all efforts. To such, the affirmation, 'I know you not,' will be given."

Visiting Pastors To Preach.

CHAIN STORES WILL BE TAXED

Senator Wells Wages Losing Fight Against Plan.

NEWELL, W. Va., March 4.—Charges of unconstitutionality hurled on the senate floor Saturday at Charleston against a measure which would place chain stores under the provisions of the gross sales law, failed to prevent passage of the bill. The vote was 24 to 4 with two senators absent.

The provisions of the measure are contrary to the constitution. It was charged by Senator W. Edwin Wells, Jr., of Newell, who also told the senate that the bill, by taxing chain store profits, would prevent these stores from aiding housewives to keep down the cost of living.

Wells declared that similar laws in other states had been deemed unconstitutional as directed at one class of business, and that by passing the law the senate merely enacted a measure which would later result in battles through the courts at great expense to the state.

He was answered by Senator Walter S. Hallanan, Kanawha county, who denied that the bill was unconstitutional or that it was an attempt to "legislate the chain stores out of business." He declared that its provisions which would place a tax of three-fourths of one percent upon the gross income of chain stores, would bring a revenue of approximately $250,000 to the state.

Chain stores as defined by the bill would be 10 or more retail establishments operated in West Virginia under the same ownership. The measure was sent to the house for concurrence.

Hatch Radio Service Company, Chester, Now Featuring the New Model 42, Atwater Kent

While the Atwater Kent line in general needs little introduction to radio fans of this community because its qualifications have long since been well established to be easily forgotten, it is not amiss now and then, says the Hatch Radio Service Co., to point out some of the many improvements that are constantly being made in this great set. The Hatch Radio Service Company, located in Fourth street and Carolina avenue, Chester, W. Va., features the entire Atwater Kent line, accessories and service. Right at the present time they are taking considerable interest in the Model 42 all-electric mode—more beautiful than ever. The set uses six alternating current tubes and one rectifying tube and is enclosed in a cabinet of beautiful, new design.

This all-electric model 42 is proving more and more popular here. Many people prefer it because of the built-in automatic line voltage control that protects A. C. tubes against the effects of excess current, and because of refinements in the design of this new cabinet.... a new conception of radio beauty.

You can see the new Model 42, and hear it, as well as other models of the same line, at the Hatch Radio Service Company, Fourth street and Carolina avenue, Chester. Their service is up-to-the-minute in every respect. They'll be glad to talk radio with you.

Save, Spend on Regular Basis

Do you save systematically or do you operate personal affairs on just a haphazard "income" and "outgo" which generally finds you getting along no further at all in the matter of accumulating money?

It's a cliche that your firm does not conduct its affairs this way. Why should you?

You can easily be a part of the Hancock County Building & Loan association family — one of the many who realize that they and others are sharing in the satisfactory returns and the safety for their money which this institution provides.

The Hancock County Building & Loan association renders a savings service that fits every pocketbook and the safety assured by the company is probably the biggest advantage of all. This association, with resources of more than $3,500,000, pays six per cent on all stocks.

You may make your deposits personally or you may mail them.

Get Your Vegetables in Liquid Form!

DOUBTLESS you know there are valuable dietary qualities in vegetables, but not all of us get enough fresh vegetables, and one soon tires of a "vegetable diet." A very easy way to remedy this is to get a little syrupy pepsin. Take a spoonful occasionally and you stimulate the inner system. Your keener appetite, and perfect assimilation of whatever you eat will soon show you are on the right track! Your elimination will become more thorough and regular. It isn't necessary to give up things you like to eat; or eat a lot of other things because you "ought to." The syrup pepsin can establish that perfect balance without dieting. And how pure syrup pepsin tones the stomach, liver, and bowels! You'll soon discover you can eat anything. Your chronic recurring constipation spells will disappear. Anybody who will take this simple precaution will go month after month without need of the powerful purges frequently needed in the past. Make a test of this wonderful vegetable product. Dr. Caldwell first used it in 1875. Today, you cannot name a druggist who hasn't this famous prescription always on hand, all put up, directions enclosed. Nothing is so wonderful for children, too; it is an ideal combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin that just about insures the health of young or old. Adv.

While the original purpose—to take care of the breadwinner's dependents in event of untimely death—has never been lost sight of, today life insurance is largely and directly concerned with the business of living.

"I was so weak after a serious operation that I could hardly walk," writes Miss Thelma Mae Mort, 2808 East 4th St., Dayton, Ohio. "Father John's Medicine speedily built me up. As a body builder, strength giver and for building up an appetite it is the best—it just can't be beat."

"When I was weakened and run down I found that the building power of Father John's Medicine created strength for my whole system," writes Mrs. Dorothy Parent, Bangor Road, Orono, Maine. "Since using it we have been free from serious coughs and colds."

"My baby is now healthy and strong, so full of life and play, that I am greatly pleased with the results obtained from Father John's Medicine. Coshocton, Uhrichsville and Dover Also Survive Play On Dennison Floor

Wellsville's Cagers are Eliminated, 24 to 13, in Eastern District Battles—East Liverpool Tilt Best of Day.

East Liverpool, Coshocton, Uhrichsville and Dover are survivors of the first day's play, on Saturday in the northern division elimination contests of the Eastern district class "A" basketball.

The district play-off will be staged in the Tuscarawas county city next Friday and Saturday.

While probably twice as many spectators witnessed the evening session, those present at the afternoon trials were treated to the best tilt of the tourney when East Liverpool defeated Steubenville, 34-22, in the second of the day's five games.

In the first contest on the schedule, Coshocton turned back the Mingo Junction high boys by a 41 to 13 count. The second tilt saw Steubenville go the same trail on Mingo when East Liverpool bested them. The Uhrichsville entry sent the Wellsville basketballers to the showers by counting 24 to 13, in the last game of the afternoon session.

The Crimson Tornado of Dover, even though way off their game in the first half, had little or no opposition when New Philadelphia took the floor against them to lose, 53-14. Coshocton High, already victors, again entered the cage to eliminate Toronto, 40 to 26.

Darlington, Pa., Quint Is Defeated at Auditorium.

Coach Nate Lora's Newell High school passers experienced little difficulty in defeating the Darlington, Pa., High basketballers on the Auditorium floor Saturday night. The score was 43 to 12.

In only one period of the game did the visitors show any class, that being the second quarter when each team scored six points. The Pennsylvania lads failed to score a field goal or a foul in the last quarter, while the West Virginians ran up 18 points.

Nicely, star center man for the Darlington team, was ruled out of the game during the third period for personal fouls. Sage and Waldman were the scoring stars for the West Virginians, while Nicely and McArter were the leading figures on the visiting team.

The Newell High school lassies defeated the First Methodist Episcopal church girls, 40 to 9. Maplewood defeated Glenmoor, 31 to 9, in the first preliminary.

BOBBY BELFORD PENNSY. WINNER

Joe Gennett, Pennsylvania railroad lightweight champion, was defeated by "Bob" Belford, brakeman of Conway, Pa., in the Eastern division eliminations just held at Canton, O., in the preliminaries to the P. R. R. championships to be held in the public auditorium here, March 23.

Gennett was crowned system champion in 1927 but did not defend his title last year.

Other boys who will represent the Eastern division in the second round, namely the Eastern Ohio championships, are Andy Geant at 112 pounds; Rudy Hutchman at 118 pounds; Earl Gate at 126 pounds and Carl Patrone at 147 pounds.

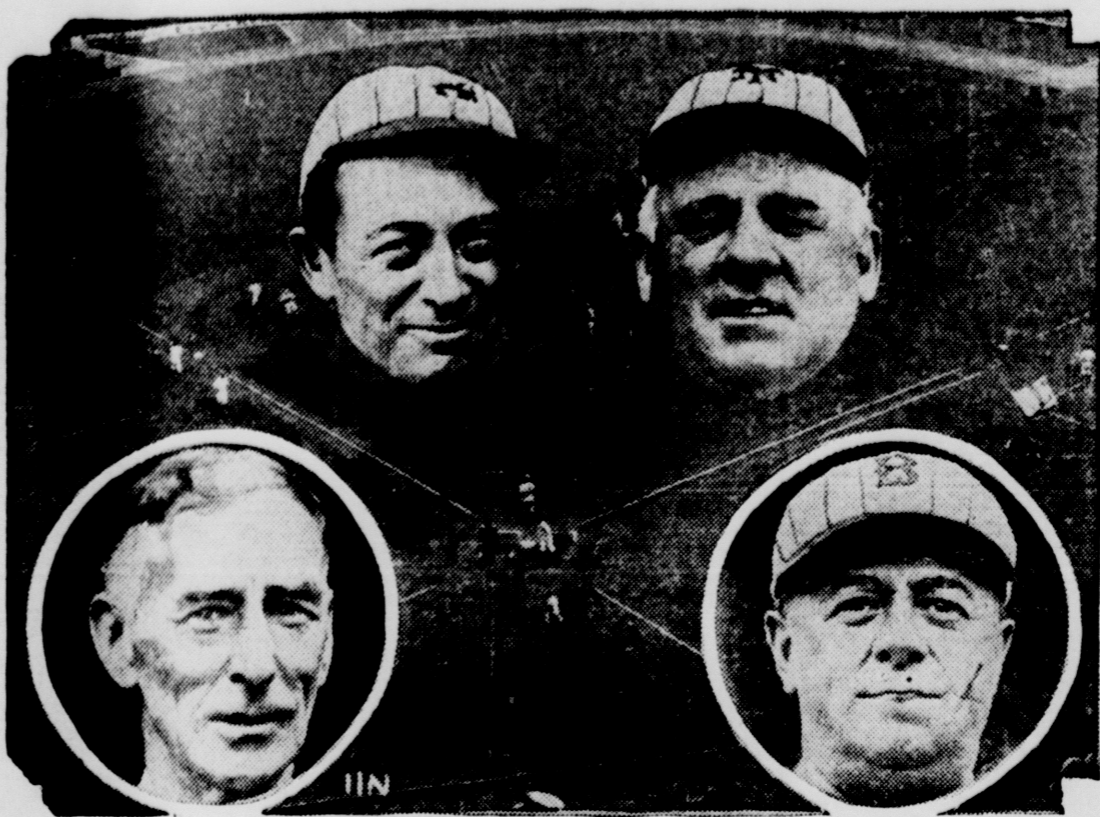

21. Steubenville 9.

In the third stanza, Steubenville boys cut the Potters' lead one point. Stern and Felt both counted field goals. Then Menge and Raknac missed fouls. Levan missed a free one and Felt scored one. Reducha and Raknac sent the Stubbers' total to 15 with a field shot from each. Chetwin and Menge counted from the foul line, to make the score 26 to 15 in favor of East Liverpool at the end of the period.

The Cartledge boys were again outpointed in the final episode. Felt and Menge counted from action and Steubenville took time out. When play started Lindell and McConville scored field goals in quick succession, before Levan scored two action and one foul shot to bring the total to 34 and 20. Lindell failed to tally from the "line" just before Stern scored the last two points of the game with a long shot dropped in from the middle of the floor.

The official count stood: East Liverpool

FOUR FAMOUS MOGULS OF DIAMOND

This famous managerial quartet has again swung into action, leading the respective big league teams in Spring training in the Southland, each one with his eyes on the World's series pennant. They are (top l. to r.) Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees and John J. McGraw of the New York Giants; (bottom l. to r.) Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics and Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins. Combined, the men have been managing the same teams for an aggregate of 83 years. Mack is the senior, with 29 years leadership of the Athletics. McGraw has a 23 year record.

Madison Square Garden's Boys Ride Home in Triumph

Jack Dempsey, Boy Producer, Does Not Accompany Victorious Troops Back From Miracle of Miami.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Having made the impossible first possible, then probable and finally actual, the Madison Square Garden Corporation's army of occupation at Miami Beach came riding into town in high triumph today from the battle of banded elbows down below.

They came riding on the damask and velvet of two private cars, which was the tip-off on success of their great gamble with the Sharkey-Stripling enterprise, there being varying degrees of comfort to be attained in vehicular travel. Napoleon, for example, rode back from Moscow in a huff.

He rode in abject defeat, they in great triumph. The latter may not be represented in too many dollars and cents. In fact, when they count all the tabs, they are likely to find that they have what is called a nominal profit, which is one of those things with which you hurry out and buy shoe strings. The real triumph came in the fact that they actually finished out of the suburb with his business.

Directors Meet Tomorrow.

John Dempsey, the boy producer, did not accompany the victorious troops and so the showdown on his immediate intentions had to be postponed. John wired an offer to Kid Chocolate last night to fight for the bantamweight title under his auspices; therefore, it may be that he has taken the miracle of Miami as a token of his genius as a promoter and is conducting himself accordingly.

There is a scheduled meeting tomorrow of the Garden's board of directors, at which several things will be decided, including the fact that they are good. William F. Carey probably will be elected general manager, replacing the late Tex Rickard, and it is more than possible that the legacy of Rickard's loss will be taken up further by an offer to Dempsey as promoter.

Hint Bid for Baseball Team.

In this way, they hope to cover Rickard's activities on the big promotions by Carey working from the inside and Dempsey from the outside. If he goes in at all, the latter will play with only a few big shots in the heavyweight racket and will work strictly on a percentage.

If he doesn't, he probably will promote his own fight with Floyd Fitzsimmons "fronting" for him. Either way, John Dempsey figures to quit the game at the end of the year far ahead of the play.

The proposed purchase of the New York Giants also may be broached at the meeting but to no particular purpose. That's one thing about merchandising: You can't buy if the owner won't sell.

FAVOR BADGERS FOR CAGE TITLE

CHICAGO, March 4.—Wisconsin rules a slight favorite to "take" Michigan in the game that probably will decide the Big Ten conference basketball championship, at Ann Arbor tonight.

Each team has won nine games, but Michigan has lost two and the Badgers have been beaten only once. It is the Wolverines' final game, whereas Wisconsin plays once more, against Chicago Saturday night.

If Doc McNeill's boys can hang this one on the Wolves it will practically clinch the crown for Wisconsin. If Michigan wins, the latter will be assured at least a tie with the Badgers.

Michigan got in this spot by beating Ohio State Saturday night, 27 to 26. Other results Saturday were: Purdue 27, Illinois 23; Chicago 27, Minnesota 23; Northwestern 38, Iowa 33. Wisconsin and Indiana had no game scheduled.

Save for the ultra-final Saturday between Wisconsin and Chicago, the season closes tonight with all of the other eight teams in combat. Besides the Badger-Wolverine headliner at Ann Arbor, Ohio State meets Purdue at Lafayette, Iowa closes against Indiana at Bloomington. And Minnesota and Illinois do their swan act at Champaign.

DALLAS, Tex., March 4.—Catcher Martin Autry, who was traded to the White Sox by the Cleveland Indians for Outfielder Bib Falk, was in the Sox camp today, ready for business. Autry declared himself "tickled to death" over the deal.

In Training Camps

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 4.—The baseball training season starts officially today, for this is the day when George Herman Ruth drops his brassie and swings his trusty home run mace for the first time this season.

CLEARWATER, Fla., Mar. 4.—Daddy Vance and Buzz McWeeny, Brooklyn's two best pitchers, are at training camp here ready to go to work just as soon as they get salary increases totalling $11,000. Vance wants his annual retainer raised $4,000 to $25,000 and McWeeny, who got $8,000 last year, thinks he is worth $15,000 this year. Uncle Wilbert Robinson will attempt to adjust the matter today.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 4.—Carl Mays, the veteran pitcher who is attempting a comeback with the New York Giants, planned to resume practice today despite his broken left thumb. He will warm up daily with the injured member bound in splints. Mays declares he will win 20 games this year.

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—The Cleveland Indians battery candidates, after two light workouts last week and a layoff yesterday were to go in to a more rigorous and extensive training session today. Jimmy Zinn, the best pitcher in the American as-

Paterson Defeated By 'Rosies'

Cleveland Team Shows Championship Form Sunday.

Displaying the form which won them the championship of the American Professional Basketball league during the first half season, the Cleveland Rosenblums, who play in East Liverpool Wednesday night, defeated Paterson, N. J., 32 to 17, in the Forest City last night.

Paterson displayed the form which has kept them in the cellar during most of the present season. The Whirlwinds, according to recent reports, had strengthened through the addition of a new player, Sig Makofski and the new strength failed to materialize last night, however, and the visitors were no match for the Rosenblums. "Dutch" Dehnert, Cleveland guard, was the high point man of the evening.

"AIR CIRCUS" CERAMIC BILL

Proving that they are as adept in touching the heart strings of film fans
as they are in providing laughter, three young film satellites swept across the screen at the Ceramic theater today in the Fox Films production, "The Air Circus," and etched their names more deeply into the film favorite lists of those assembled.
"The Air Circus" is a picture that grips one's interest with the opening scene and never releases it. This one, unlike many plots, is unfolded in such a manner as to keep one guessing right down to the final fadeout. David Rollins, around whom the major portion of the story revolves, captivates with his boyish wholesomeness and exceptional handling of this opus by Howard Hawks and Lew Seiler, the directors, keeps Rollins' victory over fear of the air encountering so many obstacles that it seems doubtful, until the last few minutes of the picture, whether it will be victory or failure.

Sue Carol does admirable work as the sister of the aviation school owner, played by Charles Delaney. Sue is an air instructor and it falls to her lot to teach Rollins and his pal, Arthur Lake, how to fly a plane. Young

"AIR CIRCUS" COMING TO CERAMIC

Sue Carol and David Rollins in The Air Circus

The story concerns two small town boys who take up flying. One is a "natural" airman, who cares little about the technique of ground work, while the other is out to carry on where his brother left off as a World War ace. At the school both fall in love with the same girl (Miss Carol), who with her brother (Charles Delaney), operate the field. The war hero's brother is a marvel at mechanics, but a coward in the air, while his pal is just the opposite. Louise Dresser is featured as the mother of Rollins. Coming to the Ceramic theater four days starting Monday.

Fifth street spent Friday in Pittsburgh. Miss Alberta Jeanette Comm of Parkers Landing, Pa., is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Herche, West Eighth street.

Miss Grace Harris of Ellwood City, Pa., spent the week-end with local friends.

"ESSEX WEEK"

OBSERVED HERE

Every Person Invited To Ride; 10-mile Route Announced.

This week is "Essex Challenger Week" not only in East Liverpool but throughout the United States.

Every person is invited by Ray Birch, of the Ray Birch Motors, Hudson Essex dealer, to ride the new Essex Challenger. No one will be asked to buy in this campaign, which will be for demonstration purposes.

During the week, Essex cars will follow a set 10-mile route in demonstrating the new models. Starting at the Ray Birch Motors garage and sales room, Walnut and East Sixth street, the route is along Sixth street to Dresden avenue, thence out Dresden avenue following Route No. 7 to the sub-station, into Calcutta and back to East Liverpool over the Calcutta road and St. Clair avenue. At the foot of the St. Clair avenue hill, the car will be turned around and the trip made up the hill to show that it will climb the grade on "high." The passenger then will be returned to the garage.

Approximately 150 tack cards have been erected to designate the demonstration route. Three stock cars have been placed in service for this campaign.

For the convenience of those who seek first-hand information regarding gasoline consumption of the new Essex, a glass jar of one gallon capacity has been arranged. The gasoline line from the fuel tank at the rear of the car will be disconnected and the line attached to the glass jar. Birch asserts that tests show that the car will do better than 23 miles to the gallon of gas. The car will travel at a top speed of 70 miles an hour, he says.

This Essex Challenger has something new in brakes. They are the two shoe, moulded type. Chances are relinings will never be necessary. That doesn't sound like the olden days with replacements needed at 20,000 to 25,000 miles, does it?

The Challenge: Essex is a car with 76 refinements and improvements. It shines in its chromium plate. Its interior is luxurious in pastel shades of velvet velour. The hardware is silver finish. Bodies are wider, roomier and seats are adjustable.

The bodies are silenced and built to stay rattle proof. Doors and windows are sealed in rubber, which means a warm draftless car in winter and a cool one in summer. Instruments are grouped on a silver instrument board. With the "nerf" tips, you pull a button to crank the motor. An automatic device shoots raw gas to the cylinder head. The motor starts on the first turn on a zero morning. An electric gauge in front of your eyes tells you the amount of gasoline in the tank and how much oil in the crankcase. In colors, there is a wealth of striking combinations to choose from.

PERFECT REFRIGERATION FOR EVERY AMERICAN HOME

The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have been responsible for the development of many of the electrical appliances in common use today. Their vast resources, wealth of experience and equipment were brought to bear on experimenting and perfecting x-rays, radios, wiring systems, power plant equipment, nationally known electric household appliances, and practically every electrical device from the smallest incandescent lamp to the mightiest of electric locomotives.

Their latest achievement was recently brought to light in the form of a revolutionary type of electric refrigerator. Their sixty-four engineers made and tested over four thousand refrigerators of nineteen different types. Their aim was to produce the simplest, most practical Electric Refrigerator which electrical science could achieve. That ambition has been realized in their new General Electric Refrigerator which gives perfect refrigeration.

Easy to Care For.

"Among the outstanding advantages," says Mr. Malone, of the Ohio Power Co., "is the simplified method of installing. There are no pipes to clog, no drainage to account for, no special electrical wiring. Just plug in at the nearest light socket and it starts. This makes it almost as portable as an electric fan. It is unusually quiet in operation, which makes it especially desirable.

"Another feature which will please the busy American homemaker is the fact that it never needs attention of any kind, no oiling, nothing to get out of order. All parts are enclosed in a hermetically sealed housing. The coils need no dusting or care, as the circulation of air through them drives the dust away from the top of the refrigerator.

"It uses very little current and maintains a uniform temperature. This item alone is worthy of special merit. Many people do not have access to ice in the smaller communities, but no village is without electricity.

"This refrigerator was built as women really want it. Many women experts were consulted. Good Housekeeping Institute made suggestions which were incorporated into its design. Every possible convenience was added to make it an ideal refrigerator.

Is Housewife's Delight.

"All foods are kept fresh and wholesome, sound and delicious. New delicacies are so easily made in the Electric Refrigerator that good housekeepers find it relieves them of the little troublesome details of catering.

HARLEQUIN SANDWICH LOAF

If you would your guests beguile,
Serve sandwich loaf in Harlequin style.

1 Pound of Butter, 1 Teaspoon of Lime Juice, 1 Teaspoonful of Curry Powder, 1 Teaspoon of Salt, 1 Loaf of Bread, 1 Pound of Butter Creamed, 1 Small Can of Minced Chicken, 1 Tablespoon of Minced Parsley, 1 Teaspoon of Salt, 1 Pound of Ground Pistachio Nuts, 2 Tablespoonfuls of Cream, 1 Cupful of Ground Boiled Tongue, 1 small Glass of White Bar le Duc.

Remove the crusts lengthwise from an entire loaf of white bread. Trim off the sides and ends to make them straight, then cut off four slices full length and a quarter inch thick. Cream the first four ingredients together to make a curry butter and spread one slice of bread with it. Cover with minced chicken. Butter a second slice and place it upper side over the filling. On the upper side, spread more curry butter and then a mixture of the nuts, cream and salt and cover with the third slice buttered; another layer of curry butter, a layer of ground tongue and of Bar le Duc, and the fourth slice of bread completes the sandwich. Wrap tightly in dampened cloth and place between two platters weighted with an iron. Keep in the refrigerator for an hour or longer, and when ready to serve cut thin slices from the small ends of the loaf to produce a striped-sandwich effect.

SPRUCE BEER

Very old, very healthful, very good.

Forty drops each of oil of spruce, oil of saffron and oil of wintergreen, over which pour 1 gallon boiling water. Add 4 gallons of cold water, 3 pints of molasses and 1 pint yeast. Let stand 2 hours, then bottle and put on ice before using.

ing and gives them a new variety of easily prepared and pleasant to serve desserts. Tempting ice-box cakes, light-as-air mousses, exquisite frozen salads and spices, are remarkably easy to prepare. And how sure of success they are! Every woman likes to entertain when she is sure her salads will be crisp and tempting, her desserts just right, and her drinks cold and refreshing. The General Electric makes a supply of crystal clear cubes of ice making it unnecessary to fill your glasses with irregular, jagged chunks of ice which look so unattractive.

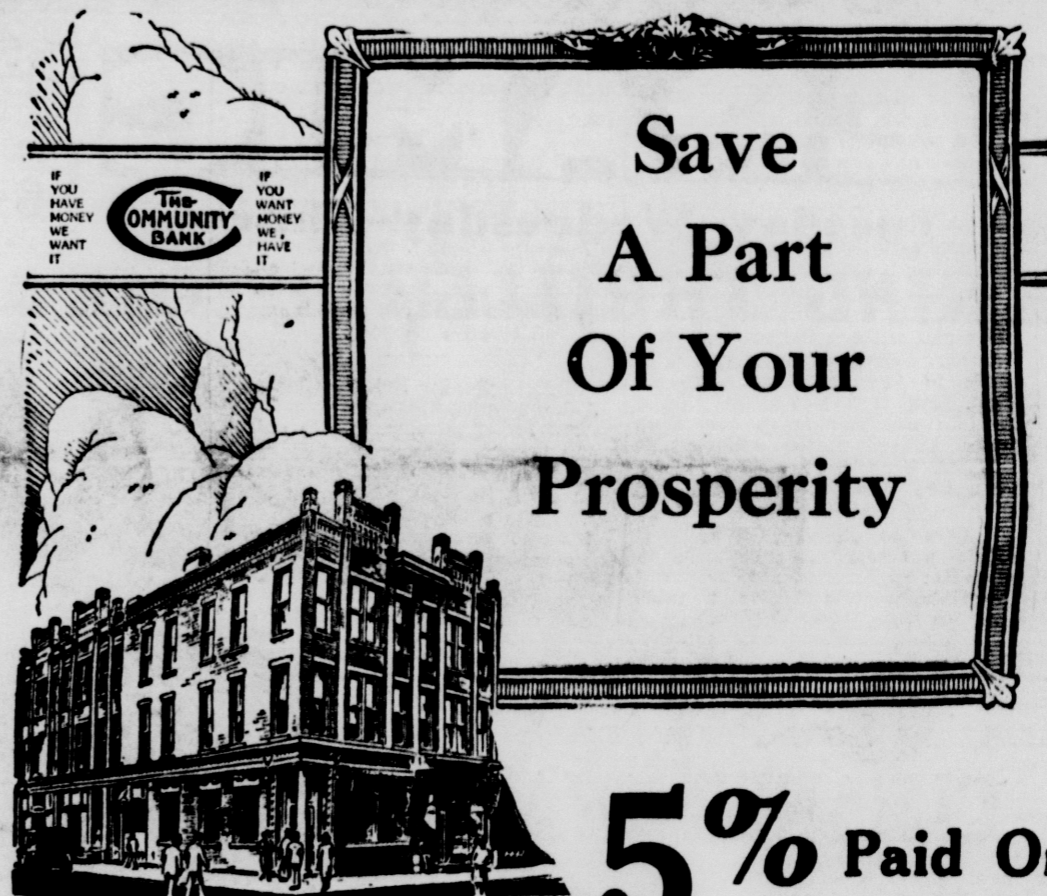

"Today, people everywhere are interested in achievement, and the attention they are giving to the General Electric Refrigerator is an acknowledgment of the fact that it is a really great invention.

"There are many different sizes and models. Each with a maximum food storage capacity. The cabinets are neat and attractive with porcelain interiors and exteriors of porcelain or white lacquer."

CELERY SALAD

Used 30 years and more.

1 hard boiled egg, 1 raw egg, 1 tablespoon salad oil, 1 teaspoon white sugar, 1 saltspoon of salt, 1 saltspoon of pepper, 4 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon dry mustard. Rub yolk of hard boiled egg to a paste, adding by degrees the other ingredients. Beat the raw egg to a froth and stir in. Add vinegar last. Cut well cleaned celery into 1/2-inch pieces, mix with the dressing, chill and eat as soon as possible.

SAVORY DESSERTS

Peach Pommerie.
1½ cupsful sugar, ½ cupful water, 1 quart peaches, 1 pint cream.
Mash the peaches and rub them through a colander. Dissolve the sugar in the water, add the peach pulp to it and, finally, add the cream whipped. Freeze. Strawberries or cherries may be substituted for the peaches. This recipe makes two quarts of cream.

Peach Short Cake.
1 cup milk, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoonful salt, ½ cupful melted butter, 3 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1½ cupsful flour, 1 teaspoonful sugar.
Mix the flour and milk, add the butter and beat. Next add the well beaten egg yolks and then the baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat well and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a waffle iron and use two or three sections of waffle for each individual short cake. Put together with peaches and cream. Top with a half of a peach and whipped cream. Berries or other fruit may be substituted for the peaches. This recipe will serve eight persons.

New Apple Whip.
Cut a dozen marshmallows into bits with the culinary scissors and pour over them a cup of grape juice or orange juice if preferred. Let stand until the marshmallows are soft, then add 1 large yellow fleshed apple grated and 1 large ripe banana crushed with 1 teaspoonful lemon juice. With an egg beater whip until very light. Fold in a cup of sweetened whipped cream. Serve in sherbet glasses decorated with a candied cranberry. If not sweet enough a little sugar may be added.

Butterscotch Nut Bavarian Cream.
1 tablespoon gelatine, ½ cup cold water, 1½ cups boiling water, 1½ cups brown sugar (dark), 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, 1 pint whipping cream, 1 cup nuts.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes. Turn boiling water on to brown sugar and salt; add to soaked gelatine, and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Let stand until cool and thick like molasses. Add vanilla, and fold in stiffly beaten cream and chopped nuts. Pour into cold mold, to set and chill.

Rhubarb Pudding.
3 cups rhubarb, cut small, 1½ cups sugar, 2½ cups raisins, grated rind 1 lemon, optional, 1 cup water, 1½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoon baking powder, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoon melted shortening.
Wash and dice the rhubarb and place it with the raisins, lemon rind and one cup of the sugar in baking dish. Add the water, cover and bake for ten minutes. Meanwhile sift the dry ingredients together, add the remaining sugar and moisten with the well beaten eggs, milk and melted shortening. Pour this mixture over the partially cooked fruit and bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees F.—about one hour. Serve with lemon sauce or hard sauce.

Spanish Cream.
1½ tablespoonfuls granulated gelatine, 1 cupful cold water, 1 cupful condensed milk, 2½ cupsful hot water, 3 eggs beaten separately, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 teaspoonful vanilla.
Soften gelatine in cold water. Dilute condensed milk with hot water, bring to scalding point in double boiler, add softened gelatine and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Pour slowly over the egg yolks, blending thoroughly. Return to double boiler; cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, add salt, flavoring, and stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Turn into individual molds. Chill. Serve with a garnish of whipped cream or soft custard or fruit sauce.

SERVING THE CHICKEN

Chicken Baked in Milk.
Clean chicken and disjoint or cut in pieces for serving. Roll in flour which has been seasoned with salt and pepper. Saute until a golden brown. Arrange pieces in a casserole or roaster and cover with milk. Cover and bake in oven 350 degrees Fahrenheit (moderate) until tender, about 3 hours. Thicken the liquid with flour stirred with a little cold milk—2 tablespoonfuls of flour thickens one cupful of liquid.

Chicken Cutlets.
Season pieces of cold chicken or turkey with salt and pepper. Dip in melted butter. Let this cool on the meat and dip in beaten egg and fine breadcrumbs. Fry in butter till a delicate brown. Serve on slices of hot toast. If chicken is not available, pieces of cold veal make a very nice dish, prepared in the same way.

Chicken Croquettes.
2 cups chicken, cooked and chopped, ½ cup of thick white sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, Dash of paprika, 1 egg yolk, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.
Combine chicken, sauce and seasonings. Stir in the egg yolk. Shape in cones, roll in cracker or bread crumbs, then in slightly beaten egg, and drain in the crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat. Drain on soft paper and serve on a platter surrounded with buttered peas or asparagus tips.

Chicken Sausage.

EN CASSEROLE RECIPES

Chicken en Casserole

Heat three tablespoonfuls of butter and fry a thinly sliced onion in it until light brown. Cut a tender chicken into pieces. One weighing three pounds is best. Roll the pieces in flour and fry in the fat until light brown. Heat the casserole in the oven, then place a layer of chicken on the bottom, cover with a layer of celery cut in small pieces and mixed with chopped green peppers. Fill the dish in this way and then pour over the chicken one and one-half cupfuls of hot water. Season with salt and pepper and bake, covered, for two hours.

Scalloped Ham.

Into fine pieces chop cold boiled ham until you have a cupful. Sprinkle the bottom of a casserole with rolled cracker crumbs. Cover this with a hard boiled egg sliced thin, pour in some white sauce and put in half of the ham. Then add more crumbs, another hard boiled egg, sliced, more sauce and the remainder of the ham. Bake for fifteen minutes, remove the lid of the casserole and cover the contents with crumbs dotted with butter. Bake until crumbs are well browned.

Bavarian Pie.

Chop in small pieces one pound of fresh pork, season with salt and pepper and pour over it one-half cupful of cider. Let the meat stand in this for one hour, turning the pieces frequently. Line the bottom of a deep pie dish with pie crust, on the bottom of this put a thin layer of sausage meat, then add half the pork and then another layer of sausage and the remainder of the pork. Cover the top with crust. Pinch the edges together lightly. Cut a two inch hole in the center of the crust and fill with a roll of paper to keep it open. Bake in a moderate oven for three hours.

Beef Roll.

Trim a round steak neatly and cover with bread stuffing, seasoned like chicken dressing. Then roll it up tightly and tie in several places with clean string so the dressing cannot escape as it cooks. Place in a casserole with water enough to keep it moistened. Bake in a moderate oven for two hours or until meat is tender.

Liver en Casserole.

Cut a pound of liver into thin slices. Put the liver in a little salt water for twenty minutes, then pour on fresh water and drain. Cut two medium sized carrots and one small turnip in thin slices. Cut up enough parsley to make two tablespoonfuls. Put a layer of vegetables in the bottom of the casserole, then a layer of liver and then a thin slice of salt pork, then more vegetables and so on until the casserole is full. Then add one cupful of canned tomatoes and two cupfuls of water. Cover the casserole and cook for two hours. Thicken the gravy with one tablespoonful of flour blended smoothly with a tablespoonful of butter.

Baked Sweet Potatoes.

Arrange in a layer on the bottom of a casserole thin slices of cold boiled or baked sweet potatoes. Sprinkle over them a little salt and pepper and a tablespoonful of brown sugar. Dot over with one tablespoon butter. Put in another layer of potatoes, seasoning, sugar and butter. Cover the top with buttered crumbs and bake, uncovered, until the top is well browned.

Lima Beans en Casserole.

Soak a quart of dried lima beans over night. Next morning place them in a saucepan. Cover with the water in which they were soaked and let them cook until nearly done. Season with salt and a little pepper. Put in a casserole two cupfuls of fresh pork, cut in small pieces, add the beans, drained, a sliced onion, and half a cupful of canned tomatoes, strained. Pour over all four cupfuls hot water. Bake for two hours in a moderate oven.

Father's Favorite Meat Pie.

This is a good way to use up left-overs. Cover the bottom of a well greased casserole with a layer of mashed potatoes. Add a thick layer of cold cooked beef or any left-over meat. Cut the meat in small pieces and pour over it gravy or white sauce. Season with salt and pepper. Cover the top with mashed potatoes and bake uncovered in a hot oven, brown the potatoes on the top, brown the potatoes on the top.

Ham and Potatoes.

In a greased casserole, alternate layers of raw potatoes sliced about one-quarter of an inch thick with pieces of smoked ham cut about one-half inch thick and large enough for individual servings. Place a few small pieces of butter on the potatoes. Over all pour enough milk to fill the casserole. Cook in a moderate oven for about two hours.

To Care for an Electric Toaster

To remove the crumbs from an electric toaster, I find a small bottle brush the best thing to use to get under the wires. I also give the nicker a rub with a dry, soft cloth each time after using the toaster.

If you find it hard to remove from your hands the odor of onions or fish after preparing them for cooking, put a spoonful of dry mustard in a small quantity of warm water and wash the hands in this. It banishes all odor.

Recipe for Lamb Chops in Verse

Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater,
Had a wife but wouldn't keep her.
Peter's wife got very fat
And Peter quit her cold for that.
Peter's wife then soon decided
That her eats must be divided.
Sweets and starches she must ban—
Ever to win back her man.
Vegetables by the score
She would eat—and fruits galore.
Or Peters pumpkin, for a treat,
With lamb chops as her only meat.
Peter made just one suggestion:
"Pineapple aids digestion."
So Peter's wife ate lamb chops tender
And when the fat from them she'd render,
She'd broil the chops upside and down—
Then fry pineapple slices brown.
A toothsome meal when served together,
In any season, any weather. . . .
Peter's wife got very slim;
Frocks all fitted snug and trim
Peter's wife looked very snappy;
She and Peter now are happy
To Use Up Tiny Potatoes.
Boil them in salted water with the skins on and then run them through the potato ricer. The skins do not go through and the flavor is improved by the process. Then put them in a baking dish, dot with butter and pepper, and brown in a hot oven.

Waffles The Electric Way

Waffle irons are made like two griddles cut in a special pattern, hinged together face to face and revolving in a frame so that both sides may be turned over the flame. Like griddles, they are made either of iron or aluminum. Iron is used for waffle irons suitable for oil, gas or coal stoves, while aluminum is used in the electric waffle irons. The electric irons are arranged so they are heated on both sides at once, thus baking a waffle in less time, and the necessity of turning the iron over to complete the baking of the waffle is eliminated. The electric waffle irons come in a great variety of designs, there being one which is a combination of both griddle and waffle iron. The electric iron makes service at the table easy and attractive.

To bake waffles, put about one tablespoonful of butter in each compartment in the center of the iron. Do not cover the entire surface, or the batter will run over the sides when the iron is closed. Do not grease an aluminum iron.

A Standard Waffle Recipe.
2 cupfuls flour, 4 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1 1/2 cupfuls milk, 2 egg yolks (beaten), 2 egg whites, (beaten), 4 tablespoonfuls melted shortening.
Combine the above ingredients according to the rules for "pour batter." Any griddle cake recipe may be used in the waffle iron by beating the eggs separately and using some extra shortening to make a lighter cake.

The waffle recipe may be varied in the following ways:
(1) Sour milk may be used for liquid by adding three-fourths teaspoonful of baking powder soda and reducing the baking powder to one teaspoonful. Buttermilk or cream may take the place of a part of the liquid.
(2) A lighter waffle may be made by using more eggs.
(3) A health waffle: This will appeal to many for it contains three-fourths of a cupful of bran instead of white flour.
(4) Cereal waffles: Cornmeal or rice may be substituted for flour. One-fourth cupful of cooked cereal substituted for one-fourth cupful of flour.
(5) Corn waffles: Add one-half cupful of grated green corn to the batter.
(6) Fruit waffles: Three-fourths of a cupful of chopped raisins or dates may be added to the standard recipe.

VEGETABLE DISHES

Escalloped Asparagus
2 cups cooked asparagus, 1 cup grated cheese, 4 hard cooked eggs, cream cheese.

Make cream sauce by melting one heaping tablespoon of butter in pan, stirring in one tablespoon flour, adding 1½ cups milk and salt and pepper. Have asparagus cooked almost dry. Put in casserole or baking dish a layer of asparagus, cheese, cream sauce, and sliced hard cooked eggs, and so on until all ingredients are used. Top layer with paprika and bake about 30 minutes. This may be served on hot buttered toast instead of baking. Combine ½ cheese with white sauce. Then use remainder of cheese and the eggs as garnish.

Green Beans and Bacon
1 can cut stringless green beans, ¼ pound bacon, 1 tablespoon flour, Trim and cut bacon to 2-inch lengths. Fry to delicate brown. Into this, empty can of beans with liquid. Boil for fifteen minutes. Sprinkle flour over the mixture and stir gently until smooth, then let simmer until ready to serve. Will serve six.

Stuffed Baked Tomatoes
6 tomatoes, 1½ cups soft bread-crumbs, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter or butter substitute, 1 teaspoon salt.

The tomatoes should be very firm, smooth and of equal size. Cut a piece from the stem of each tomato, and remove the centers without breaking the walls. Make a stuffing of the centers of the tomatoes, crumbs, seasonings and melted butter or butter substitute, and mix well. Sprinkle each tomato well with salt and pepper, and fill with the stuffing, packing it in quite solidly. Place a small piece of butter or butter substitute on the top of each, arrange the tomatoes in a baking dish, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until tender. Serve hot in the baking dish.

An Easy Way To Cook Tomatoes
Wash well-ripened, even-sized tomatoes—leave skins on. Cut a thin slice off the blossom end. Place on a buttered oven glass baking plate. Sprinkle with salt and black pepper, add two tablespoons of cold water. Set in oven 350 degrees Fahrenheit (moderate) and bake 15 to 25 minutes depending on size. They should be cooked but not broken. Put a teaspoonful of butter on each. Serve hot.

Variations:
Before baking, put on each tomato, 1 tablespoonful minced cooked ham, or 1 tablespoonful of grated cheese and a sprinkling of paprika.

Potato Puff or Souffle.
2 cups hot mashed potatoes, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter or butter substitute, 1 cup milk.

To the mashed potatoes add the fat, the egg-yolks, which have been beaten until very light, and the milk. Stir until well blended, and then fold in the stiffly beaten egg-whites. Mix lightly and pile the mass into a well-greased baking-dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) about ten minutes. Serve at once, as this does not improve with time.

Creamed Spinach.
2 pounds spinach, 1 tablespoon butter or butter substitute, 2 tablespoons cream, 2 hard-boiled egg yolks, salt, pepper.

Remove roots and wilted leaves of the spinach. Wash in several waters, until all trace of sand has disappeared. Place in a large kettle without additional water; the water which clings to the leaves is sufficient. Cover the kettle and cook until the spinach is tender. The time of cooking depends on the age of the spinach. Long cooking darkens it. Salt the water just before cooking is complete. When done, drain well and chop fine. Return to fire, add butter or butter substitute, salt and pepper, and stir until the fat is melted, then add cream, finely chopped yolks and mix well.

Vegetable Pie.
Mix together ready cooked cubes of carrots, lima beans, peas and canned corn. Season with butter, salt and pepper. Add a little milk and put in individual earthen dishes, suitable for the table. Cover with rounds of pastry that rest on the edge of the dish. Cut a slit in the center of each piece of pastry. Bake about 12 minutes or long enough to cook the pastry thoroughly. Serve as main dish at dinner or supper.

Carrots a la Creme.
1 quart carrots, 2 medium sized onions, 1 cup water, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon sugar, 3 tablespoons cream, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

Wash, scrape and cut carrots lengthwise. Cut onions fine. Put together and add water, sugar and butter. Cook very slowly until tender. Add the flour (moistened), salt and cream. Allow to come to boil but do not stir. Shake the kettle a little to prevent scorching. Serve with the parsley sprinkled over the top.

DRESSINGS

BOILED — ¼ cup lemon juice, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon mustard, 1½ cups boiling water, 2 eggs.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add water gradually, stirring constantly. Cook in double boiler until thick and smooth. Beat eggs slightly; pour cooked mixture slowly over them. When well blended, return to double boiler; cook two minutes; add lemon juice; remove from stove and beat well.

MAYONNAISE — ½ teaspoon mustard, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, yolk of 1 egg, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¾ cup oil.

Sift dry ingredients; add egg-yolk and one-half teaspoon lemon juice. While beating constantly, add one tablespoon oil drop by drop; then add oil in a fine steady stream, continuing the beating, and thinning occasionally with lemon juice until all of the oil and lemon juice are used.

FRENCH — 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 6 tablespoons oil, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika. Mix ingredients and stir or shake thoroughly just before serving.

Salads

Pineapple, Prune and Marshmallow Salad.

Cover each individual salad plate with crisp lettuce leaves. Upon the lettuce place a slice of pineapple and top it with three prunes stuffed with marshmallows. Garnish with cheese balls and serve with mayonnaise. The prunes should be thoroughly cooked but should be firm.

Pear Salad.

Place two halves of canned pears on leaves of crisp lettuce or endive. Sprinkle them freely with finely chopped nuts or put two very narrow strips of canned pimento across each half. Serve with French dressing. The halves of the pears may be placed cut side up and the core cavity filled with cooked puffed raisins. Another variation is to fill the cavities of the pears with cream cheese sprinkled with finely chopped nuts.

Sunflower Salad.

After all's been said and done, sunflowers bending to the sun (Say it without hesitation) are a bit of inspiration.

And we owe them gratitude, notwithstanding platitude; They, like cheery bird that sings, try to make the best of things.

Dainty dishes are that way when one makes plain food look gay. Here's a salad sure to please: One half-pint of cottage cheese.

Mix with salt and mayonnaise. Tasty dish for summer days. Serve on chop or sandwich plate, either one; don't hesitate.

Pile on center cheese in mound. Take peach-halves. Arrange them 'round.

Lettuce leaves put 'round plate next — have them crisp or you'll be vexed.

On the mound in center, now, drop plump raisins—you know how. One might tell you, were there need, these are for the sunflower seed.

Veal Salad.

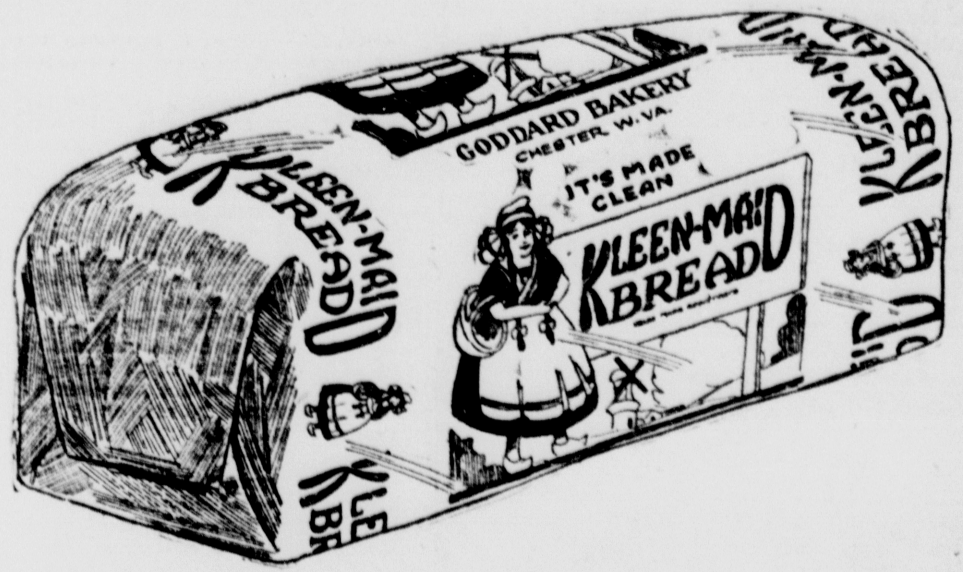

3 cups diced cooked veal, 1½ cups diced celery, 2 tablespoons minced pimento or green pepper, 3 tablespoons salad oil, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-6 teaspoon paprika, mayonnaise, lettuce, sweet pickles.

Remove all gristle and skin from meat, cut into dice, add celery, pimento or green pepper and lemon rind and marinate for half an hour with oil, lemon juice, salt and paprika beaten together to a French dressing. Chill, drain off excess dressing, add four tablespoons mayonnaise, blend thoroughly and serve on lettuce, plain or shredded, putting additional mayonnaise on top. Garnish with celery tips and small sweet pickles. Cost, $1.40; time, 1 hour, marinating additional; serves six.

Pineapple Salad.

A never-failing Kentucky recipe, 25 years old.

On individual salad plates put a small slice of pineapple. Cover this with a half banana cut in cubes. Mash ½ pound of cheese with any preferred salad dressing, add an equal amount of whipped cream. Put a spoonful on fruit and garnish with pimento and chopped nuts.

New Chrysler "75" Royal Sedan, $1535. Wire wheels extra.

Mrs. Bertha Harris Says—

CHRYSLER popularity is due not only to the public acceptance of Chrysler originality in style and beauty, but to the acclaim of the freshness of Chrysler engineering and performance.

CHRYSLER engineers bring to the task of developing their new cars the same originality and the same enterprise which characterize their achievements in style and beauty.

CHRYSLER engineers, from the beginning have applied what is best in the existing art and practice of the industry, but have not been content to accept even such features without subjecting them to their own improving touch.

In addition, they have devised and developed so many entirely new features that Chrysler cars are in no sense like anything else that runs... Rubber shackles, for easy riding — Hydraulic brakes, for perfect safety — together with ease of handling—make Chrysler a delightful car to drive.

That is why the speed, the dash, the stamina you find in Chrysler can scarcely be equalled, much less surpassed, in cars costing even so much as a thousand dollars more.

WHOLE SOME MEAT RECIPES

Spiced Pot Roast.

4 lbs. beef (rump, round or top sir loin), $\frac{3}{4}$ cupful flour for dredging meat, suet or lard for browning meat, 2 onions, 4 bay leaves, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoonful pepper, 5 whole cloves, $\frac{1}{2}$ cupful vinegar.

Flour meat and sear on all sides in hot fat in a heavy iron utensil. Slice the onions and place them on top of the meat. Add barely enough hot water to cover the meat, then add the vinegar and spices. If preferred, the spices may be put in a cheesecloth bag. Simmer for three hours. To thicken the gravy, blend together one half cupful flour and one cupful water, add it to the gravy and boil several minutes. This recipe will serve eight to ten people.

Tomato and Ham Toast.

Thin sliced cooked ham, 1 cupful tomato sauce, Hard-cooked eggs, toasted bread, parsley and paprika, chopped onion, 1 tablespoonful butter. Cut the ham in neat thin slices to fit the top of the toast, and saute these in butter, sprinkling with the minced parsley, paprika, and a little chopped onion. Place each slice of ham on a slice of buttered toast and pour over the hot tomato sauce. Garnish with slices of hard-cooked eggs and parsley.

Baked Ham Slice.

1 slice ham, center cut ($1\frac{1}{2}$ lbs. to 2 lbs.), $\frac{3}{4}$ inch thick, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup brown sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup fine stale bread crumbs, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon pepper, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup boiling water, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sweet cider (or other preferred fruit juice heated).

Sear ham on both sides. Make hot dressing of the other ingredients. Put ham in shallow baking pan, or casserole. Spread the dressing over the ham. (Add a little extra boiling water if necessary.) Bake in moderate oven about $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours (till ham is tender). Serve with hot applesauce, browned pineapple slices or other preferred sauce.

French Fiddle.

Place a layer of sliced raw potatoes in the bottom of a large pan, next some thinly sliced onion, then some lean beef cut in small pieces. Season generously. Put on another layer of potatoes. Pour on 1 to 2 cups sweet cream, sour cream or water and a bit of butter. Do not fill the pan, as liquid boils up. Allow $2\frac{1}{2}$ hours for baking and cooling. Together with cold slaw and pumpkin pie, this makes a wonderful meal.

Roast Beef With Yorkshire Pudding. Lay a grating over roasting pan, placing on this the roast beef. Add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of boiling water to the dripping in the pan, and one teaspoon of vinegar, basting the beef with this frequently. For the pudding batter, sift two scant cups of flour, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, $\frac{1}{2}$ cups sweet cold milk, 1 teaspoon baking powder and one or two eggs, and mix well together. About half an hour before the meat is done, take it from the oven, and pour off all of the dripping from the pan to save for gravy. Pour the batter into the roasting pan, replace the grating over this, and then the meat on top, and bake from 20 to 30 minutes in a very hot oven.

Braised Breast of Lamb.

1 large carrot, 2 onions, 2 table-spoons drippings, 2 pounds breast of lamb, 3 slices lemon, 1 teaspoon salt, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon pepper, $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups stock or water.

Scrape and slice the carrot, peel and slice the onions, melt the drippings in a shallow pan and cook the carrot and onions in it for ten minutes. Cut the meat into convenient pieces for serving, season and lay on top of vegetables with lemon. Pour water or stock around and simmer very gently for one and a half hours, keeping pan closely covered. Remove lemon and serve meat on a bed of cooked macaroni or rice, thickening, browning and pouring over all the gravy and vegetables.

Filipino Meat Loaf.

$1\frac{1}{2}$ pounds Hamburg steak, $\frac{1}{2}$ pound fresh salt pork, 1 medium sized onion, finely chopped, 1 green pepper, finely chopped, 3 slices bacon, table-spoonful cold water, 1 cupful bread

PINEAPPLE BETTY

Here's one of those "more, ma-ma, more" desserts. How often do you try to think up a simple, wholesome, easily-made dessert? This recipe meets all of these requirements. Make it once and you'll have another dependable standby in your collection of desserts. Mix $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups drained crushed pineapple, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 3 table-spoons brown sugar and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon cinnamon. Put in a greased baking dish and over it your $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of the juice. Dot the top with pieces of butter, using 1 table-spoon in all. Bake in a moderate oven until brown. Serve hot with your favorite pudding sauce.

crumbs, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoonful pepper, 2 table-spoonful salt, 2 cupfuls canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoonful sugar, 2 table-spoonful flour.

Mix together thoroughly the Hamburg steak, chopped salt pork, one teaspoonful salt and one-eighth teaspoonful pepper and pour them over the meat loaf. Bake in a hot oven at 450 degrees F. for an hour and a quarter. Remove the loaf to a platter and thicken the tomatoes with the flour mixed with the cold water and serve with the meat. This recipe will serve eight.

Pot Roast of Beef.

2 pounds of round, chuck or shoulder, 6 or 8 potatoes, 1.3 cup melted suet, pepper, 6 or 8 small carrots, salt, flour.

Wipe meat with damp cloth, rub well with flour, salt and pepper. Have hot fat in heavy kettle or Dutch oven. Add $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ cup hot water. Cover tightly and cook slowly until tender, about 4 hours. The vegetables are added the last hour of cooking. More water may be used if necessary.

Crepe de Volaille.

1 cupful chicken, cut in small pieces, 2 egg yolks, $\frac{1}{2}$ cupful cream, 1 table-spoonful flour, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoonful nutmeg, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoonful salt.

Mix all ingredients together and steam in one large buttered mold or individual molds. If preferred the nutmeg may be omitted and a table-spoonful of minced parsley added. It should be steamed one hour or baked one hour in a moderate oven about 35 degrees F. For the latter, the molds should be set in a pan of water. This recipe is delicious served with cream sauce and peas. It will serve four.

Boudins (Pronounced Boo-dangs).

1 pint cold cooked meat chopped fine, 1 table-spoon butter, 2 table-spoons bread crumbs, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup stock or boiling water, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, salt and pepper to taste.

Put all these ingredients into a pan, stir and cook briskly for a few minutes or until thoroughly mixed. Turn into a baking dish and bake 20 minutes. Serve either hot or cold, cut in slices. May also be used as filling for sandwiches.

Spiced Pork Roast.

4 pounds fresh pork, 1 onion, flour, salt and pepper, 1 teaspoon mixed pickle spices, 8 sweet potatoes. Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Place in roasting pan in hot oven and when flour has browned add a pint of hot water and the spices which have been tied in cheesecloth. Slice onion over meat and bake three hours, basting frequently. Add more water if necessary. Split potatoes and put in pan with meat half an hour before serving time. Make gravy after removing the meat.

Creamed Dried Beef.

$\frac{1}{2}$ lb. thinly sliced dried beef, shredded, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoonful pepper, 2 cupfuls cream sauce, 1 egg if desired. Cover the shredded beef with hot water, let stand five minutes, drain. Add beef to hot cream sauce, let simmer three minutes, add egg well beaten and pepper. Serve at once on toast or with border of rice or spaghetti.

Shoulder Lamb Chops Parmesan.

6 shoulder lamb chops, beaten egg, $2\frac{3}{4}$ cup stale bread crumbs, salt and pepper, $1\frac{1}{2}$ cup Parmesan cheese, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon mixed herbs. Trim any excess fat from the chops, dip them first into beaten egg, then in bread crumbs to which salt, pepper, cheese and herbs have been added. Repeat the dipping into egg and crumbs, then lay the chops in a baking dish and bake half an hour in a moderately hot oven—375 degree F.—or, if preferred, fry golden brown in a little fat, then cover and cook gently for twenty minutes longer. Serve with peas and tomato or Spanish sauce, or with brown gravy or mint or jelly. Cooked in this way, shoulder chops are just as tender and delicious and frequently better-flavored than the more expensive loin chops.

Veal Cutlets.

$1\frac{1}{2}$ pounds veal cutlet, cut thick, $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups bread crumbs, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup finely minced onion, grated rind $\frac{1}{2}$ lemons, 1 teaspoon mixed herbs, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 beaten eggs, 2 table-spoons water, frying fat. Blend thoroughly the crumbs lemon rind, onion, herbs and seasonings. Beat the eggs with the water. Trim the cutlet and then with a sharp knife cut it into thin slices; these will vary in size and shape because the cutting must follow the contour of the meat. Dip each slice into crumbs, then into beaten egg, again into crumbs and fry gently in a little hot fat, browning both sides evenly. A rich brown gravy or savory tomato sauce should be passed separately, never on the platter with the meat, as this would destroy its crispness.

Cutting Pineapple for Salad

In cutting canned sliced pineapple into small sections for a large fruit salad, the most effective and quickest way will be found to remove the entire top of the can, drain off the juice, then insert a sharp knife down the center of the slices in the can and cut wedge shaped pieces, cutting all the slices at the same time.

Now!—An Utterly New Way in Home Washing

That Ends Both Soap Fade—"Soap Eat" of Fine Things Regardless of How Often Washed

We washed one of these cob-webby chiffon stockings 31 times, with ordinary soap and found that its color still matched that of its mate.

Gold encrusted chinaware washed 384 times with ordinary soap, without trace of dishpan wear or fade.

Stops Ruining Fine Things—Cuts Washing Time One-Half or More

NEW light has been thrown on saving fine fabrics from ruin and fade and fine china from dishpan wear, that often saves the average family hundreds of dollars yearly, and the housewife countless heart-aches.

A fadeless way of heavy washing has been found. A way that makes the worst "hard" water and ordinary household soap into a perfect NO-FADE cleanser. Fine lingerie is washed 50 times or more—without noticeable fade. Expensive hosiery saved from fade and wear almost unbelievably. And results are proved before this new way goes to you.

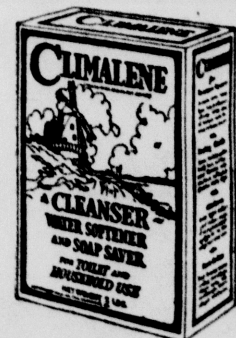

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing water. Just a tablespoon or two. Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water. So soft that it does the work with ONE-FOURTH the soap you use now. And thus ends danger of "soap eat" to fragile things.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime. And thus cuts washing time, too—in either dishpan or washing machine—ONE-HALF or more.

packages
(12 OZ.)

CLIMALENE

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. Some 2 million women now are using Climalene—for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

To assure results to you, we buy fine things, lingerie and delicate fabrics. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them.

We wash delicate lingerie, often 50 times—without perceptible fade. Children's rompers, 60 to 90 times. That's over a year's home washing.

We wash gold encrusted china hundreds of times—without a trace of gold gone. And thus prove the blandness of this way.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white. Then try it.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it in 10c and 25c packages.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O.

To Clean an Old Skillet.
Sometimes, due to the porosity of the metal, or careless washing, a skillet becomes encrusted on the outside. Once formed, no amount of scraping or washing will remove it. But if the article is put into a hot fire—an excellent place is a bed of hot coals in the fireplace—the crust will burn off, leaving the metal as smooth and clean as when new, and the skillet will in no way be injured.

To Prevent Spattering.
To keep the stove clean when frying meats that should not be covered, try placing an inverted colander over the skillet. This quite effectually prevents the spattering of grease, yet allows the steam to escape.

RECIPES FOR LENTEN SEASON

Scalloped Fish and Lima Beans.
1 cup cold shredded cooked fish, 2 cups white sauce, 1 cup cooked lima beans, seasoning to taste.
Place in buttered baking dish a layer of the fish, then one of white sauce, follow with a layer of beans and one of white sauce. Repeat these layers, cover the top layer (of white sauce) with buttered cracker crumbs. Bake in hot oven 20 minutes.

Eggs Baked in Tomato.
1 tablespoonful chopped green pepper, 1 small onion chopped, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 cupfuls tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoonful fine pepper, 6 eggs, 1/2 cupful grated cheese.
Cook the onion and green pepper in the butter for five minutes, add the tomatoes and cook slowly about 15 minutes, pour into a shallow baking dish or glass platter and break the eggs carefully into the tomato. Sprinkle with the cheese and bake in a moderate oven for about 15 minutes, or until the eggs are firm. Serve in the dish in which they are baked.

New England Salt Fish Dinner.
This consists of codfish boiled in milk or water, then covered with a cream sauce to which hard boiled finely chopped egg has been added, the fish then being served with an accompaniment of plain boiled potatoes, boiled beets and onions seasoned with butter and a little minced parsley.

Smoked Salmon Club Sandwich.
Fresh tomatoes, French dressing, buttered toast, lettuce, thin slices smoked salmon, stuffed olives.
Marinate tomato slices in French dressing. Cover a slice of toast with the tomato; on this put crisp lettuce leaves, also dipped in dressing. Cut the salmon in convenient pieces, arrange over lettuce, top with toast and garnish with a stuffed olive.

Eggs in Bacon Rings.
6 long slices of bacon, 6 eggs, salt, pepper, parsley, toast points.
Curl the bacon around the inside of a muffin tin or small ramekin. Break an egg inside each bacon ring, place the cup on a baking sheet or shallow pan and cook in the oven until the egg is set but not hard. Remove them from the cup carefully so that each egg remains in the ring of bacon. Place them on a platter, put a triangle of crisp buttered toast between the eggs and garnish with parsley. An egg dish perhaps not so well known as some of the others is:

Hot Devilled Eggs.
Prepare the eggs as you would for a picnic; that is, cook them hard, cut them in half crosswise. Remove yolk, mash and season. For one-half dozen eggs use three tablespoonfuls melted butter, two tablespoonfuls mayonnaise, one tablespoonful vinegar, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoon mustard and just a dash of cayenne. Refill the whites and skewer the two halves together with wooden toothpicks. Roll the eggs in fine dry bread crumbs. Then dip them in beaten egg and into the crumbs again and fry them in deep fat, until a golden brown. Remove toothpicks and serve hot with Epicurean sauce. The sauce is made as follows:
3 tablespoonfuls mayonnaise, 1 tablespoonful prepared mustard, 3 grated tablepoons horseradish, 1 cupful cream whipped, 1 teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce.
Mix in the order given.

VANGUARD

A Highly Amusing Story of a Romance
Aboard a Millionaire's Yacht.

By Arnold Bennett

The baron ignored him and ran off again: the eager child had been reborn in him. Septimius, who had the precious faculty of always reconciling himself to facts, saw that he had been cast that night for the role of kettles to a dog's tail, and hurried after his host. He was convinced that the child could not find a way upward, but luck favored the child in the maze of arcades, slopes, tunnels and stairs. Within five minutes the richest newspaper proprietor in Europe was perched on a hundred feet above earth, his legs dangling over a wall, a Roman arch for a frame above his head, and a full view of the measureless oval of the interior in front. Septimius joined him, but instead of sitting on the wall, leaned against it. Both were puffing, not too hard considering their middle age.

Septimius began to share the childhood of the Baron. He was excited, happy, proud. He felt glad that his wife was not there to ask distracting, silly questions and complain of the cold or the danger. On the other hand, he had a vague notion that the scene was somehow incomplete without Harriet. He turned up the collar of his overcoat. The Baron unloosed his overcoat.

"And this is less than half of what it was," said Lord Furber. "When ye think that Lords and Bishops and things clated away pieces of this place for three hundred years and built half the palaces and churches of Rome with 'em! And this is what's left. * * * Sutherland, we're nobodies! What a crew they were! Fifty thousand free seats! Talk about bribing the people! Well, they knew how to do it. We bribe 'em with promises. This is what they bribed 'em with. Makes ye think, what?"

"Here, my friend," said the placid Septimius—seventh olive branch, and bearer of a Roman name—"Have a cigarette. And button up that overcoat."

Lord Furber absentmindedly took a cigarette and lit it from Mr. Sutherland's in the chill air, but he would not button his overcoat. But Septimius, cigarette between teeth, drew the sides of the overcoat together and buttoned them and then turned up the collar. It was a firm, friendly act, quickly and neatly done. Lord Furber was touched.

They smoked. And the ascent of the moon gradually lightened a strip of grass on the western side of the arena, and the strip became broader and broader. One half of the great, gaunt interior was dark, the other illuminated in every detail. Not a sound. No rats, bats, mice, mosquitoes nor winging nightmoths. Then the faint, thin accents of an American voice, the human forms moving pigmy-like across the waste.

"Say, Sep! What are ye after?" It was the Baron, reflective, who put the question.

"What am I after?"

"In life?"

"A quiet life."

They smoked.

"And you—what are ye after?"

The Baron threw away the end of his cigarette, and the red glowing particle wavered downward and was lost to view beneath.

"Hanged if I know!" A sigh. A long pause. "All I do know is, I'm out to win—everything."

"Well, you won everything, my friend."

"Not with you," said the Baron.

"Surely you didn't expect to win there!" said Septimius. "You didn't start right."

"Sep," the Baron took him up. "Now let me tell ye. I know I didn't start right. Let me tell ye. But I thought I might—I only heard day before yesterday that you were in Naples. I heard ye were soon leaving for London, but I didn't know for certain ye wanted to leave that night. I wanted to see ye. And I wanted to see ye before ye got to London. It might have been too late for me after ye'd got to London. If I had asked ye to come aboard in the ordinary way, ye might have refused. And I had to see ye. Of course if I hadn't heard ye were in Naples I shouldn't ha' bothered. But seeing I did know, I had to bother. Besides it was great sport—I mean all that arranging of the dinner and so on. Great sport. Chicane, Sutherland! Chicane! Perhaps that's what I'm after in life. Well, it was a bigish thing in conspiracies—I knew it. * * * And then when I'd got ye on board, ye know, ye did play into my hands. No need for me to keep ye on board in spite of myself, though I'd fixed that, too. Ye stayed or yer own accord. All I had to do was to hurry the rest of 'em ashore. If yer luggage hadn't come, and if I hadn't stayed talking so long with that Harriet of ours, and if ye hadn't gone to bed and snored—(Sep, ye put me out of my stride when we went to bed; nobody else on earth would ha' done it)—and if I hadn't had my hand on Harriet's shoulder, it might all ha' been a bit different to what it was. * * * I'll say this, Sep, ye took it grandly. And ye beat me, and there's no two ways about it. Then I was a trifle shirty with Harriet—she'd upset me—when I happened to mention Lalliers to ye this morning. Yes, I didn't begin right. I owe ye an apology; and here it is. And I won't say anything about the black eye I owe ye for knocking me down."

There was something so persuasive and appealing in the Baron's rather disconnected account of his performance that Mr. Sutherland's heart was touched. Could this piece of naive youthfulness, with legs dangling over a wall on the upper works of the moonlit Coliseum, be the hard and formidable individual who had made a huge fortune by invention and was doubling and trebling it by masterly combinations in the City? Mr. Sutherland was so affected that the said performance appeared to him now to be perfectly natural and such as no reasonable being could decently resent. But then Mr. Sutherland, after all as canny as most, began to reflect.

"Why did this master of chicane offer me a hundred per cent more for Lalliers than I'd made it worth? What does he want with Lalliers, anyway? What lies beneath all this wonderful exhibition?" And he told his heart that is must cease to soften.

Then the Baron gazed at him with a boyish, candid smile, and Mr. Sutherland perceived that his heart was not completely under control. He thought:

"If this fellow with his Coliseum by moonlight asks me now to let him buy Lalliers as a favor, just because he wants it and won't be happy till he gets it, I shall give in to him. I shall make him a present of Lalliers, I know I shall."

And he almost trembled as the Baron opened his mouth to speak again.

But at that moment a voice at some little distance behind them among the dark masonry called out, with a twang like a banjo:

"Say, you guys! Can you give a line on this rule? Is it the Baron or Diocletian of the Baths of Caracalla? I only made Rome this afternoon and I kind of wandered out from my hotel tonight without my wife, and had a drink and I've lost myself."

Lord Furber coarsely and unfeeling burst into loud laughter.

"Don't fall off the wall, my friend," murmured Mr. Sutherland placidly.

To himself, Mr. Sutherland said:

"I am saved."

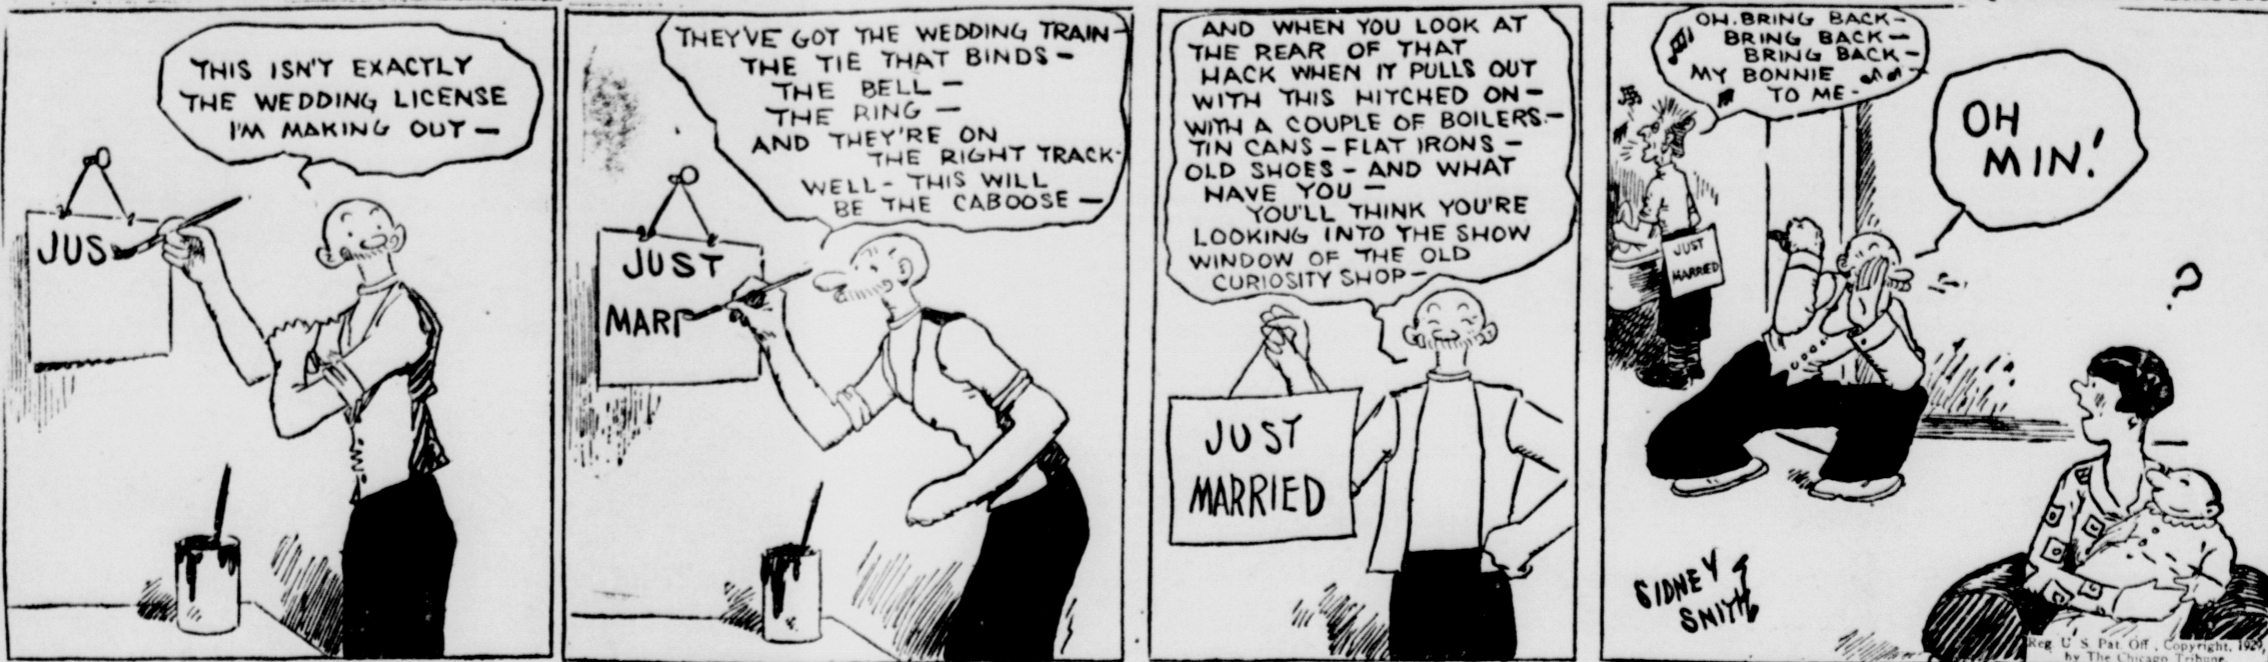

And indeed the stranger had unwittingly brought down the curtain on the scene.

Mr. Septimius Sutherland had a disturbed night in the splendid accommodation so generously provided for him by his intimate friend Lord Furber in the Paradiso Hotel. He thought a great deal about Harriet Perkins. He disliked being so far away from her. He wished that she could have joined the excursion—of course properly chaperoned. On the other hand, he considered that it was just as well she had not joined the excursion. He wondered whether a man as notoriously prudent as himself would not best show his prudence by bolting off at once to the safety of London and his very domestic hearth. But he could not bear to go, because he could not bear the prospect of not returning to the yacht and Harriet.

Again, he wondered whether, as the safest measure of precaution, he ought not to telegraph to Mrs. Sutherland to come to Rome, bringing with her their daughters; he knew they would come like birds, and like tame birds settle on his shoulders. His anxieties as to his own behavior would then be at an end. But no! He could not bear that prospect either. How terrible would it be if Lord Furber, fascinated by Rome, kept the yacht jollily at Ostia and invited the whole Sutherland family for a cruise! Lord Furber would be quite capable of the act, and capable, further, of maneuvering his new housekeeper into comic impossible positions, for the justification of the Sutherland ladies. And Harriet herself would be quite capable of casually addressing him in the presence of his family as "Sep!"
